Report of State Library Board

RICHMOND, VA., November 22, 1916.

To the Honorable HENRY C. STUART,
Governor of Virginia.

SIR:

As required by law, I submit the annual report of the State Library Board for the year ending October 31, 1916. It consists of a brief account of the work of the State Library for the year, written by the chairman of the Library Board, and of most of the report of the State Librarian to the board, with a special report of the department of archives and history for the year ending October 31, 1913. This special material is included in the present report, and submitted for publication as a part thereof, under the operation of the law passed by the General Assembly of 1916 in reference to the reports of the Library Board. The law now reads: "The Library Board shall annually make a report to the Governor of all receipts and expenditures, and of the condition of the library, and all other matters in relation thereto that it may deem expedient for the information of the General Assembly; and such reports shall be transmitted by the Governor to the General Assembly; and it may have published annually as a part of its report such special matter as it may deem of sufficient value from an historical standpoint, provided the number of printed pages of the report of the Library Board shall not in any year exceed six hundred" (Acts of Assembly, 1916, p. 746). The special matter consists of a list of Virginia Colonial soldiers similar to the two lists of Revolutionary soldiers printed as parts of the reports of the Library Board for the years ending October 31, 1911, and October 31, 1912. The Revolutionary lists have proved extremely valuable, and it is thought that the Colonial list will also take high rank in this class of publications. When printed, it will cover about two hundred pages.

From the librarian's report have been cut several paragraphs, and also one or two lists similar to those heretofore printed, the design being to save space wherever possible in order that the amount of money expended in printing the library report may not be excessive.

RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES.

Not counting a balance of $449.48 carried over from the preceding year, the actual receipts of the "Library Fund" from all sources—sale of State publications, fees for copying, fines, and interest on bonds—was $4,193.86, a sum slightly in excess of the amount for the preceding year—to be accurate, $39.32. The sum is insufficient for the needs of the library, and new revenue ought to be provided. The expenditures were $4,548.63. Thus there was a balance on hand November 1 of $94.71.

GROWTH OF THE LIBRARY.

The number of accessions to the main library for the year (including books, pamphlets, and bound periodicals, but not periodicals still unbound), was 3,802, less by 800 than the year before, but greater by 604 than the year before that. The total cost of book acquisitions the past year (the amount being found by adding the sum paid for books and pamphlets to the sum paid for subscriptions to periodicals and the sum paid for binding these into volumes) was $1,935.25. The cost the year before was $1,813.85. The traveling library department was increased by the addition of 110 volumes, all of which were purchased—at a cost of $82.33. The total number of books (including pamphlets and bound periodicals) in the library on November 1 was 111,115.

Further details as to the books added will be found in the librarian's report, where information is also given in reference to the maps, prints, and manuscripts secured—no very great number nor any one of peculiar importance. No oil portrait was acquired in the year.

USE MADE OF THE LIBRARY.

The recorded use made of the library the past year was somewhat greater than it was the year before. The number of visitors who came to the library—as recorded—was 27,230, as against 26,025 the year before; the number of books served was 27,074, as against 23,928 the year before; and the number of books lent for home use was 9,787, as against 8,919 the year before. The unrecorded use made of the central collection of books and of the manuscripts—and under this head comes mainly the use of the library by research workers, who will probably publish the results of their investigations—is reported to have been about the same as heretofore, as was the number of letters written in response to requests for information. The use made of the traveling library collections was somewhat less than it was the preceding year—owing, it is thought, to the fact that the condition of many of the books sent out for a large part of the preceding year was so unattractive, because of overuse, as to prevent not a few of the local associations from continuing to borrow. However, many of these books were rebound in the summer of 1915, and the department is now getting the benefit of this policy. More applications are being made for the libraries just at present than has been the case for some years past.

CATALOGUING THE LIBRARY.

Work on the catalogue went forward as steadily as circumstances permitted. There are two cataloguers in the library, but they were called on so frequently to assist in other work than that pertaining peculiarly to their positions that in the aggregate only the number of hours of one person working full time was spent in cataloguing. Practically all the current accessions were catalogued and the class philosophy, begun the preceding year, was completed. Measured in number of cards written, the results accomplished were slightly in excess of those of the preceding year. There are now in the public catalogue 179,036 cards.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE LIBRARY.

The year was one of unusual interest so far as the publications of the library are concerned. It was signalized by the appearance of the 13th and last volume of the "Journals of the House of Burgesses," and of two issues of the Library Bulletin of much more than usual interest and value, namely, the "Bibliography of Virginia, Part 1" and "Virginia Counties: Those Resulting from Virginia Legislation." Work is now being pressed on the "Bibliography of Virginia, Part 2," and on the first volume of the "Journals of the Council."

MORE SPACE ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY.

It was the design of the Library Board to ask the General Assembly of 1916 to appropriate a sufficient amount of money to pay for the erection of a second tier of stacks in the room in the library which was originally the reading room, but which it was necessary a few years ago to convert into an additional stack room. A competent architect having reported, however, that the floor was hardly strong enough to bear the added weight, this design was abandoned. In addition, it was found by the architect employed by the State Building Committee (provided for by the General Assembly of 1915) that the floor of the main stack room of the library was carrying about as much weight as could be placed on it without danger of causing deflection of the beams and cracking of the ceiling of the rooms below. Acting on the advice of a member of the committee, the librarian caused to be removed to the basement of the building books weighing about 40,000 pounds. Hence it is not thought that there is now any immediate chance of the occurrence of the deflection referred to. These books are, however, not now available for use, and it is absolutely necessary, on account of the growth of the library, as well as of the shifting of the books from the archives room to make place for the manuscripts to be collected there as soon as the steel shelving and filing cases provided for by the last General Assembly are erected in that room, to put back in the stack room very soon a great part of the 40,000 pounds removed. It is only a question of a few years when the weight will be as great as before, carrying with it danger—not, indeed, of damage to any person, for if over-loaded the beams would only be bent, not broken, but of an unsightly appearance of the building in some of its parts. The conclusion of the whole matter is, that more ample quarters must be provided for the library at the earliest moment practicable.

The Library Board invite the personal visitation and inspection of the library by your Excellency and the members of the General Assembly of Virginia.

Respectfully submitted,

ARMISTEAD C. GORDON,
Chairman.

Report of State Librarian

RICHMOND, VA., November 1, 1916.

To the State Library Board of Virginia.

GENTLEMEN:

I have the honor to submit the following report of the work done in the Virginia State Library for the year ending October 31, 1916. As heretofore, a few suggestions for the future are interspersed.

CHANGE IN FORM OF THE PRESENT REPORT.

For the past ten years it has been customary to incorporate in the annual reports of the State Librarian the reports made to the librarian by the heads of the several departments of the library. In the case of the present report, however, the essential information given in the reports made to me by my assistants will be presented in my own report, and the other reports will not be embraced in full and recommended for publication. The change is made in order to save space and to attain proper proportion. The reports of my assistants are, however, submitted in full to the board for their consideration.

GROWTH OF THE LIBRARY.

The number of books, pamphlets, and bound periodicals added during the year to the main collection was 3,802, of which 2,717 were acquired by gift or exchange, 374 were bound volumes of periodicals acquired before in serial form but not permanently accessioned until bound, and 812 were purchased. The books purchased cost $943.59. Add to this figure $562.05, the cost of subscriptions to periodicals for the year, and $429.65, the cost of binding periodicals, and the total cost of book acquisitions for the year is found to be $1,935.29. The figures to be compared with these for the preceding year are: 4,602, the number of accessions (3,535 secured through gift and exchange, 298 from binding, and 769 by purchase); $966.98, the cost of books purchased; $539.81, the cost of subscriptions to periodicals; $307.06, the cost of binding; and $1,813.85, the total cost of book acquisitions.

The number of books added to the traveling library department was 110, all of which were purchased. The cost was $82.33.

The total number of books (including pamphlets and bound periodicals) in the Library on October 31, 1916, was 111, 115.

The maps accessioned during the year numbered 149, all of which except one were presented. The one bought is a photostat copy of the first edition of Bishop James Madison's map of Virginia (1807), the price paid for it being $3.50.

No oil portraits were added, and only seventeen photographs and prints, of which twelve were purchased, at a cost of $2.50, and five were presented.

The manuscripts added numbered 32, of which 30 were presented. Two were purchased at a cost of $15.

NOTABLE ACCESSIONS—BOOKS AND NEWSPAPERS.

The most valuable accession for the year consisted of files—not absolutely complete, however—of the Staunton "Spectator" for the years 1863-1881, of the Staunton "Vindicator" for the years 1860-1881, and of the "Valley Virginian" for the years 1865-1881, purchased from Mr. Charles W. Pruffer, of Staunton, Va., for $75. Mention may also be made of a file of the Richmond "Times," bound in four volumes, and seemingly complete, extending from April, 1865, through April, 1866, purchased from Mrs. Thomas Bolling, of Richmond, for $12.

Probably the other more notable accessions of the year were the following:

Lancaster, R. A. "Historic Virginia Homes and Churches."

Visconti, E. I., "Iconographie grecque," 3 v.

Johnson, E. R., "History of Domestic and Foreign Commerce in the United States."

France, Anatole, "Novels and Short Stories," 19 v. (Presented.)

"Theses from Catholic University of America," 21 v. (Presented.)

"Literature of Italy," 16 v. .

"Farmer's Cyclopedic," 7 v.

"German Classics," 20 v.

Devereux, Jarratt, "Sermons," 2 v.

CATALOGUING.

The number of titles catalogued in the past year was 3,217; the number catalogued the previous year was 2,081. The number of volumes catalogued and placed on the shelves was 5,483; for the previous year the number was 5,731. The number of cards written was 13,797; the preceding year 13,575 were written. The total number of cards in the public catalogue now is 179,036.

The cataloguing of books in the class philosophy, on which a beginning had been made the preceding year, was completed, and a large part of the collection of Virginiana was attended to. In addition, there were catalogued practically all the current accessions. The time spent in cataloguing amounted to only the working hours of one person for the year. Since there are two cataloguers, it follows that on the average one-half the time of each was spent in doing other work. This work was, in the main, assisting at the reference desk, putting books after use in their proper places on the shelves, filing cards, accessioning books, and aiding in the preparation of several numbers of the Library Bulletin.

The classes that remain to be classified and catalogued are as reported in 1915, with the exception of philosophy.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE LIBRARY.

Volume 13 of the "Journals of the House of Burgesses," the last of the series, containing such remains of journals of the House of Burgesses from 1619 through 1658-9, and such papers of the House and of the General Assembly as a whole as could be found, with a general index, came out the latter part as a whole as could be found, with a general index, came out the latter part of February. The General Assembly of Virginia at the 1916 session made an appropriation for the publication of the companion journals of the Council of Colonial Virginia sitting as a branch of the General Assembly, and work is now going forward on the first volume of the set, the general style of which is to follow, according to instruction of the Library Board, that of the "Journals of the House of Burgesses." Since it has been determined to omit in printing the Council journals the speeches, communications, etc., which have already been printed in the House journals, only references to the proper pages of the House journals being given, it is thought that all the Council journals may be printed in two volumes of from 600 to 650 pages each. Work on the first volume has been delayed by the slowness in getting transcripts from England and my disinclination to begin printing before a sufficient amount of copy was in hand to make up a good sized volume at any rate, if not one of 600 or 650 pages. However, the printers are now actually at work on the book, and—if nothing unforeseen happens—it will be out by the first of next March.

The "Bibliography of Virginia, Part 1," (Nos. 2, 3 and 4 of vol. 8 of the Bulletin of the Virginia State Library), was issued in March of the past year. It is a volume of 737 octavo pages, and contains the titles of seven thousand books arranged alphabetically by authors, with a complete index of subjects. To the intelligent and thorough use of the collection of Virginiana in the Virginia State Library, this volume is a necessity, and it will also be exceedingly helpful to persons collecting books by Virginians or books about Virginia. Work is now being pushed on the "Bibliography, Part 2," which will contain a full list of the official publications of the State of Virginia. This volume will be even larger than the preceding volume, and my intention is, if not otherwise instructed by the Library Board, to publish it the present year as all four numbers of the Bulletin. After the publication of this work it is my hope to cut down the expense of publishing the Library Bulletin, so that more money may be expended in the purchase of books.

"Virginia Counties: Those Resulting from Virginia Legislation," by Morgan P. Robinson, Archivist (Virginia State Library Bulletin, vol. 9, Nos. 1, 2, and 3), made its appearance early in October, but is only now being distributed because it was decided, in order to save postage, to send out No. 4 of vol. 9 of the Bulletin, "French Newspapers in the Virginia State Library," by E. G. Swem, at the same time. "Virginia Counties" contains 284 pages, with maps and charts. This Bulletin makes its special appeal to workers in local history. To examiners of titles and to genealogists it will be of peculiar use. In order to get back a part at least of the money expended in the publication of the "Bibliography of Virginia, Part 1," and the "Virginia Counties," I have put the price of one dollar on each, and have prepared a descriptive circular which I hope will have a tendency to increase sales.

As for the "French Newspapers in the Virginia State Library," though it is a much slighter work than either of the preceding, it is of value as indicating to some extent the variety of the collections of the Virginia State Library and as advertising a file of newspapers believed to be almost unique in America.

PUBLICITY.

It is a well recognized fact that constant advertisement is essential to the expansion of any business. The business conducted by a library is that of getting the books on its shelves read by ever increasing numbers and used more and more productively by serious students. It must be admitted that heretofore not a very great deal in the way of advertisement has been attempted by this library, partly because it has been thought by your present librarian that for some time it would be the part of wisdom to use up almost the entire energy of the staff of the library in putting our collections in absolute order. However, advertisement has not been entirely neglected. Whenever called on I have read papers on the subject of the State Library before audiences in various parts of the State and have written articles for various publications. In addition, lists of accessions of books have been regularly published in the daily papers of Richmond. The past year these efforts were kept up. I read one paper before a literary and social organization and prepared one which was printed in the first number of "School Progress" (October, 1916), published at Bloxom, Accomac County. A circular letter was sent out from the library in the month of October to every woman in the State known to be a member of a study club, giving information as to how persons may become borrowers from the State Library. Enclosed with this letter were a copy of the circular printed several years ago giving the rules of the library and other information in reference to it and also cards used by persons applying for enrollment as borrowers. Only a week or ten days ago a letter was sent to each one of the county agents in home demonstration work in Virginia, the work which is being conducted by the Extension Department of the Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical College and Polytechnic Institute and United States Department of Agriculture co-operating. With each letter went full sets of the circulars, cards, and blanks used by this library in the conduct of the work both of the main library and the traveling library department. Undoubtedly, these agents will do not a little in advertising the library. At the beginning of the year a printed circular was sent to each newspaper in the State, with the request that it be published, giving an account of the United States Bureau of Education's reading courses and the work which the Virginia State Library was prepared to do in connection therewith. Many of the papers printed the circular, and we now have not a few requests for the books used in the course.

In order to give further publicity to this circular and a permanency that it would not otherwise have, it is reprinted here, as follows:

"The Home Education Division of the United States Bureau of Education is performing a very useful service in the preparation of courses of reading on various topics. So far, ten such reading courses have been prepared, including such topics as the following: biography, history, American literature, great fiction, etc. All that the person intending to take one of these courses has to do is to write to the Commissioner of Education, Washington, D. C., and ask for the list of books in that course or, if he has not made a selection, ask for information as to the several courses.

If the person is willing to stand an easy examination on the course when completed, and if by passing this examination he furnishes satisfactory evidence of having read the books intelligently, he can secure a certificate for the course, signed by the Commissioner of Education. This certificate, besides being a gratifying evidence of the completion of an undertaking, might possibly be of value to the holder in enabling him to secure a coveted position over a rival who could not furnish such evidence of his interest in reading. It is very generally recognized among employers that the reader of good literature is much more likely than the non-reader to be mentally alert and consequently efficient. The main benefit, however, of the course is not to be measured in this way, but in the intellectual and spiritual advantage which comes from having read systematically a number of good books selected by experts.

These courses are now being taken by people all over the United States—not only young people, but old people as well—and much good is being accomplished. The main obstacle to the very rapid increase in the numbers enrolled as readers is the difficulty of obtaining the books. Especially is this true so far as rural districts are concerned, and such towns as have no libraries. A few may buy the books given in the lists, but those who do not find it convenient to buy are in the great majority. Nor may the books be borrowed from the Bureau of Education. The Bureau is not by law allowed to lend books as does a circulating library. All that it can do is to suggest the books that ought to be read and to give certificates to those who have completed the courses satisfactorily.

It has been suggested to the Librarian of the Virginia State Library that so far as Virginia is concerned the State Library can accomplish much toward supplying the needed books in this State. The suggestion is undoubtedly a good one. The Library has a large collection of books, and the rules of the institution are such that practically every responsible person in the State, over eighteen years of age, may, without much formality, become enrolled as a borrower, and those under eighteen may easily borrow through their parents or teachers. At the same time, books are now being carried in the mails at parcel post rates, so that a reader may secure his books at a very small expense.

It would take too long to give here the rules governing the use of the books of the State Library and the enrollment of persons as borrowers. The object of this notice is to give information as to the work being done by the Bureau of Education and as to the ability and the desire of the Library to co-operate by lending to readers in the State the necessary books.

Those interested should apply to the Commissioner of Education, Washington, D. C., for further information as to the reading courses, and to the Librarian of the Virginia State Library, Richmond, Virginia, for circular giving the rules governing the use of the Library and for cards to be signed in the process of becoming borrowers.

It may be that this notice will be seen by some who will not wish to take the reading courses, but who would like to become enrolled as borrowers from the Virginia State Library. If so, they should let their wishes be known. The authorities of the Library are sincerely desirous of extending very greatly the use of the Library."

USE MADE OF THE LIBRARY.

The number of packages of books sent by parcels post to borrowers away from Richmond was 693, as against 642 the preceding year. The average number of books in a package was probably 3. Hence the borrowers from the library living away from Richmond used about 2,000 books secured by mail, to which number should be added about 100 books sent by express, for occasionally borrowers prefer that books be sent by express. The subjoined table gives the total number of visitors to the library for the year—the term "visitor" being applied both to the person who comes to the library to read or study, and to the one who comes to look at the various objects of interest—the total number of books served, and the total number circulated. There was an increase in each one of these totals over the figures for the preceding year.

The number of letters written in response to inquiries, all the letters except those pertaining to traveling library matters being prepared in the librarian's office, though the information may be collected by various members of the staff, was probably about the same as in past years. Certainly it was no smaller.

The number of persons who came to the library to use the manuscript collection was about the same as for the preceding year. No statistics were kept, however, distinct from the statistics as to the number of visitors to the library for all purposes, the manuscripts being at present scattered in different parts of the library. When the work of furnishing the archives room with metal shelving and filing cases is completed and the transfer to that room of such of the manuscript material of the library as is not already there is made, a register will be provided for the signature of visitors, so that in the future more accuracy of statement in this respect may be expected.

WORK OF THE DEPARTMENT OF SERIALS.

Work in this department was very heavy throughout the year, and especially so after the first of March, when the special appropriation of $1,500 made by the last General Assembly for binding became available. The head of this department has supervision of all the binding done for the library except the rebinding of the traveling library books. Each volume of magazines or other periodicals has before delivery to the binder to be collated and instructions written on a card as to the style of binding to be used. When the volume is returned, it has to be carefully examined to see whether the instructions have been followed and the work well done. Each printed book sent out for rebinding or repair has to receive this same kind of attention both when sent and when returned; and each manuscript book has to receive a page by page examination in order to determine whether or not the book may be bound in Richmond or whether it would be advisable to send it to the Emery Record Preserving Company, of Taunton, Massachusetts. In addition to this unusual amount of work in caring for the binding, the usual routine work of the department in attending to all serials as they came in, in writing postal cards of inquiry when the delivery of serials was delayed, and in furnishing these serials to readers when called for, had to be done. Consequently, it was found necessary to provide as much assistance as possible for the member of the staff who usually does the work of the department unaided. The two apprentices in the library the past year helped considerably in the work, and after their time was out one of them was regularly employed at a small salary as an assistant, the money being obtained from the salaries of such of the regular employees of the library as were absent from the library a greater length of time than is allowed by order of the Library Board and latterly from the $1,500 appropriation itself, the Auditor Public Accounts having ruled that such payment was legitimate. It may also be said, in passing, that he ruled that it was legitimate to pay out of this fund insurance on books and manuscripts while away from the library to be rebound. Consequently all this material was kept insured from the time it left the library till it returned.

The following are the statistics of the department for the year:

WORK OF THE TRAVELING LIBRARY DEPARTMENT.

The statistics for the traveling library department show a falling off as compared with the statistics for the preceding year, the number of counties in which there were library stations being 70, as against 76 the year before; the number of stations (for general, school, and special libraries), 179, as against 206 the year before; and the total number of libraries furnished, 241, as against 293 the year before. In the opinion of the head of the traveling library department—and I think that he is correct—this decrease is to be accounted for by the poor physical condition of the books the preceding year. Many of the books were much worn and soiled, presenting a very unattractive appearance. Consequently, there was a tendency on the part of local library associations—the bodies to whom the traveling libraries are sent—to allow their privileges as borrowers to become dormant. However, in the summer of 1915, the books were put by the rebinding of such as seemed to need it most into comparatively good physical condition, at a cost of $368.60; so that the general libraries sent out from that time on and all the school libraries sent out last year consisted in the main of books not only attractive in content but also attractive in appearance. The result is that there has been since the schools opened this fall an enlarged demand for the libraries, and it is believed that the statistics for the year just entered on will be satisfactory. The attractiveness of the appearance of a book has a good deal of weight—and justly so—not only with children, but also with readers of maturer years.

In the year, 110 volumes were added to the books in the department—all by purchase. The year before only 79 were added. There are in the department (Nov. 1, 1916) 11,955 books. Not all of them, however, are in condition to be lent out, and some of them are even too dilapidated to be rebound. They will have to be permanently discarded. If there is no objection on the part of the members of the board, I shall send them, with a few in the central library in a similar condition, to the Richmond City Home, where, I am informed by the superintendent of the home, they will be acceptable.

THE DEPARTMENT OF ARCHIVES AND HISTORY.

The work of furnishing certified copies of Revolutionary and other records to applicants and the correspondence arising in connection with it proved so time-consuming when conducted by the head of the department of archives and history that on March 20, 1916, I transferred all this work to my office, and the Library Board at their meeting held the 5th of April, 1916, approved this transfer by the adoption of the following resolution: "Resolved: That it is the sense of this board that the State archivist be required to give his whole time to the arrangement and handling of the manuscripts in his department; provided, that the librarian may in his discretion assign him to different work from time to time." I took it for granted that it was the wish of the board that the archivist should complete the monograph on the Virginia counties on which he had been for some time engaged. This work was handed the Public Printer on June 30, and was printed as numbers 1, 2, and 3 of volume 9 of the Library Bulletin. Of the value of the work mention has already been made in this report. Putting it through the press required three months, so that the Bulletin was not delivered until the 30th of September.

To show the amount of work done in connection with the military records I quote from the report of the archivist made to me as State Librarian:

"This report covers the work of furnishing certified copies of Revolutionary records only from November 1, 1915, to March 20, 1916. In that period of approximately five months, the department earned in fees the sum of three hundred and thirty-three dollars and fifteen cents ($333.15), which entailed the writing of eight hundred and fifty-seven (857) letters and the preparation of two hundred and twenty-three (223) certified copies, which correspondence was with forty-five (45) States (the District of Columbia, Hawaii, and the Philippine Islands being counted as States) and two foreign countries (Canada and France)."

Since the transfer of the work to my office, no record was kept of the number of letters written or of certificates furnished, but the amount of money taken in was $315.28. Thus the whole amount taken in for the year was $648.43.

Because of his attention both to the routine connected with the furnishing of military records and to the preparation and publication of the monograph on Virginia counties, the archivist was unable for the greater part of the year to devote any great amount of time to purely archival work. However, not a little was accomplished in this respect, since I provided whenever possible assistants to work under the supervision of the archivist and in this way to add to the archival work which he himself found opportunity to do. First, during the Christmas holidays a young man was engaged—the same who had done good work in the department the summer before, as is recorded in the report for the year ending October 31, 1915—who reworked four boxes of the Bounty Warrant file. Second, two young ladies were employed, one from May 22 to August 1, working part time, and the other from July 1 to August 1, working whole time. The archivist reports as follows on their work and on his expectations in reference to the file of papers on which they were engaged:

"Both of these young ladies continued with the department until August 1 and gave their whole attention to placing in properly marked 'jackets' (folders) additions to our County Petition file, assembled from various sources to the number of five thousand nine hundred and eighty-three (5,983), which were sub-classified under counties and subjects. . . . With the fifteen thousand five hundred papers of this classification already in 'jackets,' it will be seen that this file now contains approximately twenty-one thousand (21,000) petitions, in addition to their accompanying papers, which are being arranged in a general chronology, irrespective of subject and geographical distribution. In addition to the papers already in this file, there will be the other additions noted above as expected to develop from a working of the Executive Papers file and the Executive Communications file. Once this re-arrangement is complete, an analytical index will be prepared, and they will then probably prove to be the most valuable file of papers in the library, and certainly the most used, with the exception of the papers carrying the records of Revolutionary soldiers, as the file contains data upon every possible phase of the life of the State,—to say nothing of the enormous amount of genealogical data to the extent of definitely locating persons in specific localities at certain dates."

On this file of papers the archivist was principally engaged for the month of October.

At their meeting held April 5, 1916, the board adopted a resolution allowing graduate and senior students of Greater Richmond College to work as apprentices in the department of archives and history, under such rules as might be made by the State Librarian. After a conversation between Miss Lough, the professor of history in Westhampton College, the women's department of Greater Richmond College, and myself, in which it was agreed between us that such students as should come to the library should work for two hours one afternoon each week, two young ladies from Westhampton College—the only two eligible under the resolution of the board—commenced work on October 6 and have been pursuing it with enthusiasm for the few weeks that have elapsed since.

On January 19, 1912, I prepared and submitted to the two appropriation committees of the General Assembly of Virginia, in accordance with a joint resolution calling on the various departments and agencies of the State to draw up itemized lists of the appropriations sought by them, a statement of the needs of the Virginia State Library. The statement was practically the same as the one handed Governor William Hodges Mann, at his request, on November 14, 1911. One item asked for was $3,000 a year for each of the two years of the appropriation act for furnishing the archives room with metal shelving and filing cases and for properly caring for the archives. At the 1912 session of the General Assembly a bill calling for practically the same thing was introduced at the request of members of the Sons of the Revolution, this society having become much interested in the preservation of the library's manuscripts. Though much enthusiasm on the subject of the passage of the bill was manifested, the bill failed. The effort was renewed before the General Assembly of 1914, but again without success. But at the last meeting of the Assembly the bill, introduced again, and endorsed and worked for not only by the Sons of the Revolution but by the Sons of the American Revolution and by other patriotic societies, as well as by friends of the library not connected with any organization, met with better success, though not with full success. Whereas the original bill called for an appropriation of $6,000, the bill as passed carries only $4,000. At the meeting of the Library Board held April 5, 1916, the following resolution was passed: "Resolved: That bids be called for by the State Librarian for the work of fitting the archives room in the State Library with metal filing cases as provided for by act passed by the General Assembly at the 1916 session, and that the executive committee of the board open these bids and decide which to accept; after which the work is to be done under the supervision of the State Librarian and the executive committee." Pursuant to this resolution, the proper steps were taken by the executive committee, and on July 20 a contract was entered into between the Library Board and the Berger Manufacturing Company, of Canton, Ohio, for the erection of shelving on the south, east and west sides of the archives room, and later an order was given by the State Librarian to the same company for as many steel boxes as could be bought with the money not used in the erection of the shelving and the payment of the architects (Messrs Carneal & Johnston, of Richmond) for drawing up the plans and supervising the construction. Owing to the increased price of steel since the beginning of the European war the amount appropriated was found inadequate to pay for the whole amount of work contemplated, and, unless the next General Assembly makes an appropriation for the construction of a new building, it will be advisable to secure from this body an appropriation sufficient to pay for the completion of the equipment of the archives room. The contract gives the Berger Company one hundred and twenty days in which to do the work. They have not yet delivered any of the material, but, I hear, will do so shortly. When the work provided for by the appropriation is completed, the archives can be much more adequately accommodated than they now are, but I regret to say that it will still be necessary to allow the bound newspapers to remain in the wooden filing cases in the archives room. There is no other possible place for them now in the space at the disposal of the Library Board.

The Library Board at a meeting held December 3, 1915, instructed me to endeavor to secure from the General Assembly of 1916 a sufficient appropriation to allow the board to secure the services of an assistant in the library whose principal work should be done on the archives. I regret to report that my efforts failed. I hope very much that we shall meet with better success next time, for the need is great. In the meanwhile, however, I shall continue to see that the department gets as much assistance as the resources of the library will permit. But even without such assistance good progress ought to be looked for in the archival work of the department, since now the archivist has practically only archival work to do.

THE PROPOSED NEW BUILDING.

The State Building Committee provided for by joint resolution of the General Assembly adopted at the special session of 1915, whose duty it was to look into the whole question of housing the various departments of the State, made a report to the General Assembly of 1916. They recommended that a new building be erected on the old Davis Hotel site, at the corner of Governor and Franklin streets, and connected with the present library building, to be made approximately fire proof, in such a way as to form practically an annex to this building. It is designed that the library remain where it is at present but that a great deal more space, some on the second floor and some on the first floor, be assigned it. A bill calling for a necessary appropriation for the building ($300,000) was introduced, but did not get far on the road toward passage. It is thought by many, however, that the bill will certainly be passed at the next session.

One paragraph of this report is as follows:

"The building is now carrying its maximum weight and your committee recently had an architect to investigate conditions, and the librarian was advised not to introduce additional weight. That officer is now removing records to the basement wherever he can find storage room."

This paragraph is slightly misleading. No manuscript records were removed, of course—only books and bound newspapers. The books removed were in the main most of the unsold stock of the "Journals of the House of Burgesses" that we had on hand, English Parliamentary debates, and Canadian documents, and the newspapers were a long file of the French paper "Le Moniteur Universel" and a good many volumes of the New York "Herald." The weight disposed of in this way was about 40,000 pounds. The books were placed on racks on the two sides of the hallway extending from east to west in the basement and were covered with cloth so as to preserve them from dust. I do not think that they run much risk of being damaged pending the time when they will be removed to more suitable quarters in the remodeled building. They had already been placed in their present position when, on February 21, a fire broke out in another part of the basement among some old papers—of small importance—belonging to the Auditor's office stored away under the steps leading to the basement, which was quickly communicated to material belonging to the Adjutant-General's department. The fire department of the city of Richmond did not have a great deal of trouble in extinguishing the flames. Much water, however, had to be used, and some of this ran into the hallway occupied by the books; but the racks saved them from damage. I could not find that the library could properly make a claim against the insurance company.

A very noticeable feature of the fire was the smoke, which quickly spread to all parts of the building. This was so dense that the last of those who left the library floor of the building had some little difficulty in doing so. There was no fire at any time above the first floor, and little on that floor, it having been confined almost exclusively to the basement, but from the appearance presented by the building to one on the outside, with smoke in great volume pouring from all the windows of the second and third floors which happened to be open, the judgment seemed natural that the whole building was afire. The explanation of the unusual amount of smoke and of its rapid spread to all parts of the building is to be found in the nature of the material burned—old papers and cloth tenting—and in the fact that the flues of the hot air apparatus used for heating the building before the present steam apparatus was installed had not been bricked up. Through these flues the dense smoke made its way at once in all directions. These flues have now received attention, and such devices have been installed that a fire now breaking out in one part of the basement could hardly spread to another. If a fire of the same kind were to occur to-day, I am of opinion that it could and would be extinguished almost before any one working on the fourth floor would know anything about it.

The cause of the fire has never been determined—some say spontaneous combustion and others (more reasonably, in my opinion), a lighted cigarette or match careless cast to one side—but it came at a time when its effect was undoubtedly good. The attention of the members of the General Assembly was sharply drawn to the needs of the library for a greater degree of fire protection and also to the inadequacy of the quarters at present provided for the various departments and agencies of the State government.

It will be remembered that in my last annual report I stated that it would be necessary to apply to the General Assembly for an appropriation sufficient to construct a second tier of stacks in the new stack room—the old reading room. However, an architect employed by me to determine the weight-carrying capacity of the floor of that room reported that in his opinion this would not be wise, since the added load—when the new stacks were full of books—would cause the ceiling of the room below to crack. The intention, accordingly, had to be abandoned. As for the archives room—which is just above the Supreme Court room—it was reported that the flooring was designed to carry a distributed load of one hundred and ten pounds to the square foot and that the heaviest load at any place in the room at the time of the writing of the report was seventy-five pounds to the square foot. Accordingly, it will be seen that there was no occasion for alarm on the part of any members of the Supreme Court of Appeals or of any of the lawyers who practised before that court. Such alarm had been felt, however, by several, and it was for this reason that I secured the report as to the room. It should be remembered, too, that from an architect's point of view over-loading begins when the weight on a floor causes the beams to bend and consequently the ceiling below to crack in the slightest degree. The "factor of safety," however, is such that it takes five times as much load to cause the beams to break as it does to cause them to bend. Consequently there could be no danger to life or limb until long after the architect's "capacity load" had been reached. A building, however, is a thing of beauty, and never on any of its parts should be placed burdens too grievous to be borne. No unsightliness or disproportion should be allowed to make its appearance because of the use of it in a way opposed to the original design. Furthermore, the nerves of those who do not understand the situation fully should not be subjected to the strain which might be entailed by even the smallest amount of ceiling cracking. Consequently, I shall use my best endeavors always to keep the load on any parts of the library floor of this building within "capacity." This will be a difficult matter, however, to accomplish if the next General Assembly does not make provision for the new building.

THE LIBRARY AND THE LEGISLATURE.

Mention has already been made at one point or another in this report of several things done by the Assembly of 1916 especially affecting the State Library. One or two others will now be referred in the present paragraph, and additions made here and there to what has already been said. The usual appropriations heretofore made the library were continued, none of the salary increases asked for, however, being granted, except that for the second year of the appropriation act the salary of the stenographer in my office was increased from $750 to $850. For the first year of the act a special sum of $1,500 was appropriated for binding. This was not continued for the second year. This appropriation has proved of vast benefit, but it now, after most of the money has been spent, appears as if only a good beginning had been made on the work of putting the books, pamphlets, etc., in fair condition. It is greatly to be hoped that the General Assembly will continue the appropriation at the next session. The bill calling for an appropriation to enable the Library Board to secure the services of a library organizer failed. In fact, it did not get out of committee. However, many of the members of the General Assembly were made acquainted with the need for a library organizer, and several of them showed an active interest in the measure. As stated before, a special act was passed appropriating $4,000 for the erection of steel shelving and filing cases in the archives room, and the law in reference to the annual report of the Library Board was amended so as to allow the publication of material of historical value.

I submit as the first matter to be printed under provision of the amended law the list of Colonial soldiers of Virginia prepared by the former archivist, Dr. H. J. Eckenrode, in the year 1912-13, a list similar to the two lists of Revolutionary soldiers heretofore published as parts of the reports of the Library Board. The work would have been similarly published long before this but for the fact that both Governor Mann and Governor Stuart did not think that as the law stood up to the time of the passage of the amendment referred to material of this nature could legally be printed as parts of the annual report. The law having now been changed, there will be no objection on the part of any to the printing of the list. It is of great interest and value.

SUGGESTED CHANGE OF TIME OF ENDING OF LIBRARY YEAR.

The fiscal year of the State runs from the first of October through the 30th of September, while the legislative appropriation year runs from the first of March through February. This occasions difficulties of book-keeping much complained of by several departments of the State government, and especially by the State Accountant. A change, of course, from the present system could only be made by the General Assembly of Virginia and need not, accordingly, be referred to further here. I am told, however, by the State Accountant that it would simplify matters so far as he is concerned and also so far as the Auditor's office is concerned if the State Library year, which now extends from the first of November through the 31st of October, were to be made to conform with the fiscal year and with the years of most of the other departments and agencies of the State. The change would also be of advantage to the Superintendent of Public Printing, since normally he would thus get the annual library report in his hands for printing one month earlier than heretofore, and it would be a less difficult matter for him to have ready the printed reports of the library and of the other departments and agencies of the State government in time for their distribution to the members of the General Assembly at the beginning of each biennial session. A little delay in those years in which the General Assembly does not convene matters not a great deal, but for the years in which it does meet prompt printing is of no little moment. The Superintendent of Public Printing wishes it in order to show to the General Assembly that the work of his office is being kept well in hand, and the head of each department wishes it in order that each member of the General Assembly may have a copy of his report at hand from which to see what has been done during the year and what is proposed for the future. So far as the State Library report is concerned, it has happened once or twice that the printed reports have not come out in time for the delivery of copies of them to members of the General Assembly during the session. At least once it has been necessary for me to prepare and have printed a special statement for the General Assembly as to the work of the library. Under the operation of the law passed at the last session of the General Assembly permitting the Library Board to publish as a part of their report material of value from an historical standpoint the library reports in the future will be considerably longer than they have been for the past three years, but even when they contain the full 600 pages allowed by law—and they will not always contain that number by any means—they could be in hand in time if the copy is sent to the printers by the 15th or 20th of October. It seems to me, accordingly, that it would be wise for the board to adopt a resolution that hereafter the library year shall close with the 30th of September.

The board have undoubtedly the power to make the change. In fact, naturally the library year would extend from the first of July through the 20th of June, for it was on the first of July, 1902, that the present Library Board took charge of the affairs of the library in accordance with law, the day being fixed by the following provision: "The terms of the directors first appointed shall be one, two, three, four, and five years, respectively, from July first, nineteen hundred and three; and thereafter, upon the expiration of the term of a member, his successor shall be appointed for a term of five years." The first report of the Library Board covered the year from July 1, 1902, through June 30, 1904, and was dated July 15. However, the first report of the State Librarian, the gentleman who was first elected to this office having entered upon his duties the second of November, nineteen hundred and three, covered the year ending October 31, 1904. Since it was found more convenient, of course, for the two reports to have the same date, the second report of the Library Board was made to cover the time from July 1, 1904, through October 31, 1905. There is no recorded action on the part of the board, however, touching the matter till August 20, 1907, when the following resolution was adopted: "That the time for making the annual report of the Library Board and that of the Librarian to the board be fixed for the 31st of October in each year."

List of the Colonial Soldiers of Virginia

Preface.

When colonial warfare is mentioned, the mind goes back to the first English planting on American soil, to helmeted and breast-plated soldiers with pikes and muskets, who were the necessary accompaniment of the settler in the wilderness. Virginia was essentially a military colony and remained so for many years; every man was something of a soldier as well as farmer and jack-of-all-trades. Guns, pistols, and armor were part of the regular house furnishing. Danger was always to be apprehended from the Indians, who, in 1622, after many threatenings, rose against the small, sickly colony and decimated it. This massacre inaugurated a war which lasted for several years, ending in the extermination of many tribes in eastern Virginia. Twenty-two years later, in 1644, the massacre was repeated on a smaller scale, followed by inevitable retaliation.

Extension westward, beyond the first limit of settlement, the peninsulas between the James, York, and Rappahannock, brought the colonists into contact with other tribes, and small forts were erected in various places and garrisoned with rangers, who for a long period guarded this head-of-tide-water frontier against the savages. Fighting was frequent.

The Indian troubles culminated in 1676 with Bacon's Rebellion. Nathaniel Bacon raised a force of some hundreds of men to punish the Indians for long-continued depredations, and finally crushed the Indian power east of the Blue Ridge. Soon after this campaign he was obliged to turn his arms against Governor Sir William Berkley, who resented his raising troops without proper governmental authority, and in the ensuing curious little war a large part of the able-bodied population served on one side or the other. All of these fighting-men ought to be mentioned in a list of the colonial soldiers of Virginia, but the muster-rolls, if they ever existed, which is unlikely, have long since been lost.

At this time, the closing quarter of the seventeenth century, warlike spirit had not died out in Virginia, but it notably dwindled in succeeding generations, until the colony at length became that ultra-peaceable, cavalier-Quaker community which A. G. Bradley, the historian of the great French war, so warmly condemns. The reasons for the change are obvious. Cut off from the wars of Europe, far distant from the French in Canada, untroubled by Indians, eastern Virginia lived a singularly tranquil, undisturbed, monotonous life. Military ambitions require a strong military tradition and some active spur to the imagination, and the Virginians as a rule were easy-going people, bent on getting as much pleasure out of their environment as possible. Only a small proportion of the later settlers were of the military caste; as in all colonies, the greater number of immigrants were industrious citizens hopeful of bettering their condition. In a new country, undisturbed by war for the long period of three-quarters of a century, 1675-1750, a distinctly peaceful and unadventurous planter civilization developed. In the same way, all the other English colonies were unwarlike, unenterprising communities given over to the purely material pursuits of commerce and agriculture. Among the French in Canada it is true that a singularly bold class of adventurers arose, but here again economic conditions determined the development. The fur-trade was the chief resort of the poor and struggling French colony, and fur-trading is an occupation necessarily leading men into wilderness life with its perils and wanderings, especially as furs begin to grow scarce in the neighborhood of the settled territory. Canadian war-methods, evolved from border life, were wholly at variance with European military practices of that day, which engagingly grouped troops in the densest formations in order to afford the enemy every convenience in killing them. American warfare had become Indianized, and it has always retained traces of Indian ideas. Nowhere in North America did the military traditions and military spirit of eighteenth century Europe influence the people.

From time to time Virginia, like other colonies, was drawn to a slight extent into the current of European war, but her secure position, protected by layers of colonies from the French in the north and by other layers of colonies from the Spanish in the south and by the Blue Ridge from the Indians, made war for her an adventure of the few restless spirits of her population. More nearly military colonies were Massachusetts, New Hampshire, South Carolina, and Georgia, made so not by any inheritance of military blood but by the unhappy necessities of contiguity.

In the early years of the eighteenth century the southern frontier of Virginia became involved in Indian troubles as a result of the Tuscarora War in North Carolina. Alexander Spotswood, the governor, managed to avert war by making treaties with the discontented tribes along the Virginia-Carolina border. But in 1715 the governor of South Carolina appealed to Virginia for aid in the Indian war then devastating that province, and Spotswood asked the assembly for a military grant on the ground that Virginia herself lay in danger of invasion along her southwestern boundary. Spotswood, with the consent of the council, had sent arms and men, chiefly friendly Indians, to South Carolina. When the assembly met, however, it raised an issue with the governor, and the session ended without the grant of relief for the sister colony. Militarism certainly did not dominate Virginia at this period.

For a generation the quiet life of eastern Virginia flowed along quite undisturbed by any visions of war,—a condition that could not last. Willy-nilly the colonies were being drawn into the great imperial struggle between England and Latin Europe. In the Cartagena expedition of 1740, when provincials for the first time served England in war, the Old Dominion furnished four hundred men, most notable of whom, next to ex-Governor Spotswood himself, was Lawrence Washington, half-brother of George. ⁽¹⁾ Massachusetts sent five hundred men on this expedition, the largest colonial contingent. ⁽²⁾ The whole venture was wretchedly mismanaged, and the greater part of the provincials died of disease.

Six years later Virginia again contributed troops, this time for an expedition to conquer Canada. Neither the attack on Cartagena nor that on Canada directly concerned her, and it is probable that the losses of the former expedition had gone little way towards firing her with martial ardor. At all events the Virginia contingent in 1746 numbered one hundred men, as against several thousand for Massachusetts, seventeen hundred for New York, and one thousand for Connecticut, colonies which had everything to gain in case of success. Pennsylvania, North and South Carolina, and Georgia did not respond. The invasion proved abortive, and the peace of Aix-la-Chapelle in 1748 ended the war.

In Virginia the only effect of the War of the Austrian Succession was to inspire some Indian raids beyond the Blue Ridge; the profound peace of the east was not touched. But the hour was coming for war to strike nearer home, since after 1748 the French began to plan a line of settlements along the Ohio, connecting Canada with Louisiana—that is, the vast Louisiana of those days. In 1753 they built forts within the territory claimed by Virginia, which is now a part of Pennsylvania owing to the complaisance of inefficiency of the Virginia representatives in the boundary settlement made during the Revolution. By this aggression the far away Canadian struggle was brought almost to the headwaters of the Potomac. In the following war, begun on her own soil, Virginia entered on that long military career destined in the end to bring her a peculiar glory.

At the opening of the French and Indian War the colony retained her immemorial militia system, but in the tidewater it had degenerated into something of a farce. It was, by all accounts, a strangely English survival, for the commanding officer in each county was his honor the county-lieutenant and the other officers were for the most part of the gentry. The whole able-bodied male population made up the rank and file, and the militia musters were great occasions, when the scattered population came together, shouldered arms for as brief a period as conscience allowed and then feasted and made merry. Thackeray in "The Virginians" has described one of these scenes, and it is a good caricature of some of the musters in eastern Virginia. But west of the tidewater, where the people were expert riflemen and hunters, the militia took on another character. It was commanded there by the most vigorous and experienced men, and it was well qualified for frontier warfare, and for the defensive operations of regular war, as Dunmore found to his cost at the Great Bridge in 1775. In 1750 the whole militia of the colony numbered about 30,000 men, the greater part very ignorant of the most rudimentary military knowledge.

When the French built forts at Presqu' Isle on Lake Erie and Fort le Boeuf, further south, and began expelling English Indian-traders, Dinwiddie, the governor of Virginia, sent George Washington, then a surveyor and ambitious militia officer, to warn the French off English soil. Washington carried out his mission successfully, though the interlopers, of course, had no thought of abandoning their hold on the Ohio Valley on Dinwiddie's complaint. The governor then began to make plans to raise a force to meet them. After much wrangling he succeeded in obtaining a grant of money from the assembly and raised a force of 300 men, which was commanded by John Fry under a colonial commission as colonel, with Washington as second in command, bearing the rank of major. This force was not exactly militia and not regular but combined the characteristics of both branches; it was the beginning of the Virginia regiment, which became a regular military organization of the highest efficiency in border fighting. Two independent companies from New York and South Carolina, paid by the English government, were joined with the Virginians.

Dinwiddie's first move was to send Ensign Ward with forty men to build a post at the junction of the Alleghany and Monongahela rivers, a site selected by Washington. A considerable French detachment, coming up, ejected Ward and turned the block-house into the world-renowned Fort Duquesne. The Virginia regiment thereupon advanced to Will's Creek, at which point Fry encamped, while Washington with 150 men crossed the Alleghanies to a trading station called "The Great Meadows," where it was learned that the French were also advancing. Washington, taking 40 of his men ahead on a scouting expedition, chanced to run into them. A skirmish followed, and Jumonville, the officer commanding the handful of French, was killed with several others. This was the first blood shed in the war, and the English took the initiative, so that the French, with no prevision of twenty years after, branded Washington as an assassin, and actually succeeded in cheating him into admitting it.

Washington after this brush fell back to the Great Meadows, where Fry had meanwhile died. He now commanded 350 men, counting the South Carolina company, and he proceeded to throw up a slight entrenchment euphemistically styled "Fort Necessity." A little later the French arrived in overwhelming force and surrounded the fortification, pouring a hot fire into it from the shelter of the woods; the Virginians replied with spirit. When night ended the skirmish, Washington had lost twelve men killed and forty-three wounded of the Virginia force, and his total casualties probably neared a hundred. His position was desperate, and he was ready to treat for terms of surrender, which were surprisingly light. Among the articles, however, was a clause referring to the first skirmish as "l'assassinat de Jumonville," and Washington signed his name to the paper under the impression that the translation read: "The killing of Jumonville." Two Virginia officers, Robert Stobo, a Scotchman, and Jacob Van Braam, a Dutchman, were given to the French as hostages for the discharge of the conditions of capitulation, and thus the first act ended.

Stobo, prisoner at Quebec, had a very romantic and harrowing experience indeed. Among Braddock's papers, captured on the Monongehala, was a plan of the Quebec fortification which Stobo had furnished; for this he was condemned to death, but escaped to act as a guide to Wolfe in 1759. Stobo is said to have served Smollett as a model for Lismahago, and in later days certainly inspired Gilbert Parker's "The Seats of the Mighty," wherein he appears as Captain Robert Moray, a very highly idealized rendition of the eccentric soldier of fortune.

After this disaster the Virginia assembly voted $20,000 for military purposes, and Dinwiddie recruited his force, which served as an auxiliary to Braddock's command in the following year 1755, when the British government decided to strike at Fort Duquesne and the French menace. Braddock divided his little army into two skeleton brigades, the first commanded by Sir Peter Halkett and composed of the 44th regiment of the line—700 men—and 230 New York, Maryland, and Virginia rangers; the second, under Col. Dunbar, was made up of the 48th regiment—650 men—170 Carolinians, and about the same number of Virginians. There was a total of something over two thousand men. The Virginia companies included about 450 men; besides these the two English regiments had been considerably recruited in the colony, so that of Braddock's entire force of 2,000 or thereabouts, probably 600 were Virginians, a creditable showing. Braddock despised the provincial troops, whom he attempted to drill into imitation regulars, and Bradley has abused them roundly, though they won commendation for their valor on the fatal July 9, 1755, the day of Braddock's defeat. Bradley dismisses them casually: "Most of the hundred or so Virginia riflemen, about whose action in this fight a good deal of fable has gathered, were here. They did their duty, and fought gallantly behind trees according to back-woods custom. But the contemporary plan of the battle shows the attack on the rear guard to have been far weaker than where the mass of the demoralized red coats drew the bulk of the fire." (1) Washington did not serve in this campaign as an officer of Virginia troops but as volunteer aid, having resigned his commission in disgust because the British regulations made the youngest ensigns of regulars rank the highest colonial officers, the pleasing manner in which the imperial government exhibited its contempt for provincial military prowess. The Virginia companies in Braddock's expedition were commanded by Captains Waggoner, Cock, Hogg, Stephen, Polson, Peyronie, Mercer, and Stewart; and there was a troop of Virginia light horse. The other provincials included the remains of two independent companies from New York and a hundred pioneers and guides called hatchet-men. (2) Several of the Virginia companies were in the battle; Peyronie, a Frenchman in the Virginia service, and all of his officers were killed; only one officer escaped in Polson's company. Nearly all of the Virginia troops present were killed or wounded. Captains Peyronie and Polson were among the killed and Stephen, Waggoner and Stewart among the wounded.

In August, 1755, the assembly voted $40,000 for the war, and the governor and council decided to increase the Virginia regiment to sixteen companies of 1,500 men. At the same time Washington was placed in command with ranking of colonel; his chief subordinates were Lieutenant-Colonel Adam Stephen and Major Andrew Lewis, (3) both excellent soldiers. "Peyton Randolph raised a volunteer company of one hundred gentlemen, who, however, proved quite unfit for the frontier service." The Virginia regiment in 1756 numbered about 1,400 men. It was composed partly of militia drafted from the eastern counties, but much more largely of the class of restless, unemployed men who hang on every advancing frontier. Bradley has seen fit to speak disparagingly of this force and of the public spirit in Virginia, but somewhat unjustly: "Washington, with a thousand raw soldiers, low-class Southern white men, to whom authority was specially odious, was struggling in defense of a frontier nearly four hundred miles in length. Virginia, it should be said, was notoriously touchy on the subject of her boundaries. Her white population at this time was larger than that of the Transvaal Boers to day, who have placed some forty or fifty thousand men in the field. It was three times that of Natal, who has sent out to war many thousands of her best sons upon no greater provocation. Her frontier counties were swimming in blood and ringing with passionate appeals for succor. It was an occasion, one would have supposed, when the sons of her numerous aristocracy and still more numerous yeomanry would have responded in thousands to the call of their own harried people at least, if not to that of the mother country. They were an outdoor people, bred to the use of horse and gun, and cherished a sort of pride that, without the martial ingredient, seems to lack significance. The existence of slavery made even their time very much their own. The fear of a slave insurrection might influence numbers available for distant adventure; but one looks in vain among the squires and yeomanry of the Southern colonies for the faintest spark, at this burning period, of the spirit that one would particularly expect in such a class. The natural fire of youth and love of glory and adventure, to say nothing of patriotic sentiment, that was so conspicuously present with after generations of the same breed, seems in this one to have been almost an unknown quantity. Considerably less than half the officers who commanded the few hundred ill-paid mercenaries that so tortured Washington belonged to the gentry class, and represented their total contribution to the defense of the province, and the long and fierce struggle with France.

"A mere handful of Washington's own class are grouped round his youthful and commanding figure in this war. Whatever may have been the virtues of the Southern planter of this generation—and they were not inconsiderable—the love of soldiering and a generous public spirit were assuredly not among them." (*)

And Doyle has said: "Virginia has incurred severe—it may reasonably be contended exaggerated—condemnation for the part which her citizens played. She has been reproached for her tardy co-operation, for her inadequate grants alike of men and money. The blame has probably been the more freely bestowed because the antecedents in Virginia and the conditions of life there justified other expectations. The training and temper of the Virginia planters might have been thought to insure a certain aptitude for military duties. . . . Yet undoubtedly in the struggle against France the help of Virginia was given grudgingly and inadequately. That was largely due to causes for which individual Virginians of that day could not be fairly held responsible. These were two. Firstly, there was the dread of a servile insurrection. . . . The danger, too, was greatly increased by the lack of communication among a widely dispersed population. The same cause, too, helped in other ways to paralyze the military life of Virginia just as it paralyzed her economical and religious life. It was no easy matter to organize a system of defense in a country where there was no regular administrative unity." (†)

In contradistinction to Virginia and other colonies, Bradley thus pictures Massachusetts: "Three colonies, Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Virginia, with some half-million whites, to say nothing of rude and populous North Carolina, could only wring from this large population a wretched, half-hearted militia of 2,000 men, recruited largely from the burnt-out victims of the frontier. Where, one may well ask, were the squires of Virginia and Maryland, who swarmed along the eastern counties of both provinces, and whose comfortable homesteads reached to within a hundred miles of the scene of this bloody war, of their fellow-countrymen's long agony, and of the impudent invasion of their country? To mention a dozen or two young men of this class who rallied to Washington, would only be to aggravate the case, if such were possible, in the face of these statistics. Men of substance and education, accustomed to horse and gun, 'outdoor' men in fact or nothing, were quietly staying at home by thousands, unstirred by feeling of patriotism or vengeance and apparently untouched by the clash of arms and the ordinary martial instincts of youth. . . . Washington, whose local patriotism no one will dispute and whose example shone like a beacon light amid the gloom, cursed them often and soundly in his letters for doing nothing. It was fortunate for these colonies that Pitt came forward to save them . . . the tobacco squires of the Seven Years' War were lamentedly wanting in those generous and martial impulses which supply almost the only motive for pride of race, and quite the only one where high culture and learning are absent, as was here the case. . . . Turn to Massachusetts at that day, who alone sent to the front ten or fifteen thousand close-fisted, industrious farmers, men whose labor was their daily bread, and whose absence from the homestead was, for the most part, a serious matter."

These statements are fiery and somewhat overlook the facts. In another place Bradley says of New England: "They were much the most warlike group of the British colonies, not from choice, but from necessity," and, so saying, explains the whole case. New England was menaced by Canada, that is, by a hostile, civilized state on her border; New England trade was disturbed by French cruisers, and for more than a generation this condition had continued. New England military expeditions were usually conducted against a civilized enemy occupying fortified places, like Louisbourg. For this reason New England was fully aware of the French peril, something the Southern colonies never awakened to. Virginia at no time was in danger of conquest; her frontier beyond the Blue Ridge was harassed by Indians and severely harassed, but the Blue Ridge divided the colony at the middle of the eighteenth century in a most striking way. East of the mountains, especially east of the tidewater line, Virginia was another England. The mode of life was thoroughly civilized and commonplace; the people knew nothing whatever of the arts of the wilderness. Beyond the mountains lay the savage American frontier, a world apart, where men lived as frontiersmen lived until yesterday in an isolation and primitiveness requiring special knowledge. Eastern Virginians were little more fitted to cope with Indians and backwoods warfare than Braddock's troops, and Indians were the only enemy to be fought on the Virginia frontier; the French as an organized force were only to be found at Fort Duquesne, a long and most arduous journey distant. Eastern Virginians had lost the art of Indian warfare several generations before, and it was useless to expect them to be of any service in the peculiar guerilla fighting of the frontier without considerable training. Such war was without glory and attended by the most extreme discomfort. It is not at all peculiar that the imagination of the tidewater youth was not enraptured.

As a matter of fact, we see the Indian and Indian fighting through a veil of romance totally wanting to the people of the colonial period. The provincials drew all their romantic ideas from the old world; they dreamed of the gaiety and fashion of London and of the tented fields of Europe. The Indian for them was a sordid reality, one which the seaboard American had gotten rid of and which he wished to permanently remain rid of; he could little understand the taste of frontiersmen willing to live on the edge of the Indian country and squat on Indian lands when practicable, and he had little solicitude for their safety. The scalping of obscure immigrants on the border, often half-Indianized as they were, aroused him as little as the outrages committed on American citizens in Mexico to-day arouse the average American. It was something out of his ken. Doubtless he should not have been indifferent, but so he was.

Because of the idealization of Indian life by Cooper and his school the French and Indian War appears to us as one of the most fascinating periods in history. It did not appear thus to the generation that lived through it, one having no appreciation of wild adventure but preferring the tame in literature and in life; it was a generation that wrote dull verses in the dreary style of Pope and thought that the quintessence of existence lay in the art of making flourishing bows and paying complicated compliments to women on all possible occasions.

But after the Revolution Americans, partly out of hatred for England, partly because of the new ideas arising from the struggle, began to look on the mother country with a notable diminution of that ardent, naïve admiration and desire of imitation characteristic of the colonial era, seeking, instead, to find a romantic element in American life. There, fortunately for the interests of romance, stood the Indian. He was distinctive and he was American, and studied by men no longer in danger of being stalked and assassinated by him, he well fitted the romantic standard. Indeed, even now for many millions in Europe America is solely made up of Indians and cowboys. What in a dull world could be more thrilling than that incarnation of picturesque devilry, the wild Indian as he has come down to us? Note the description of him by Philip A. Bruce: "The feeling of horror was made more intense by the noiselessness with which the enemy moved, the care with which they hid their tracks, the suddenness with which they appeared at unexpected points. The wideness of the Indian's physical aspect also added to this horror,—his naked and painted skin; his sinewy frame, as lithe and active as that of a panther or wild cat; his hawk-like eye; his scream of triumph, which curdled the blood far more than the cry of some fierce wild animal at midnight. The very image of the terrible creature stamped itself upon the imagination like some menacing figure conjured up from the region of devils." (*)

This picture is fascinating to us; the reality was anything but pleasing to the provincials; and it is no great wonder that the dwellers in civilized America had no stomach for the obscure miseries of Indian warfare—the constant exposure, terrible fatigue, risk of starvation and danger of unseen death at the hands of skulking, filthy savages, who could be seldom brought to a stand-up fight. War is an exceedingly poor business without rations and glory; Indian war in the eighteenth century was a special art in which courage and ordinary military knowledge in themselves were of small avail. Twenty years later the frontier had bred a sufficiently numerous race of woodsmen, who proved a match for the red man at his own game; in 1755 the company of gentlemen whom Peyton Randolph raised for service on the frontier found themselves an incumbrance rather than a help.

The Virginia regiment, composed largely of borderers, steadily improved in discipline and finally took on the shape of a real military force. It was no longer a semi-civilian militia organization but was subject to the severe rules of military law and performed a most arduous service. In 1756 Virginia sent the "Sandy Creek expedition" against the Shawnees on the Ohio. Major Andrew Lewis was in command, and under him were Captains William Preston, Peter Hogg, John Smith, Archibald Alexander, Breckenridge, Woodson, and Overton, besides volunteer companies under Captains Montgomery and Dunlap and a handful of Cherokee Indians. (*)

The whole force amounted to 340 men, partly of the Virginia regiment and partly militia and volunteers. The expedition proved a failure, and the troops nearly died of hunger.

This year, 1756, was a very harrassing one on the frontier. In April a severe Indian irruption drove Washington almost to despair, and Dinwiddie ordered out militia to his assistance. Probably several thousand men were in service along the border at some time or other during 1756, usually for brief periods.

In 1757 Lord Loudoun, the British commander-in-chief, required Virginia to send 400 men to South Carolina. The Virginia regiment was reduced to a thousand men, and Washington retired from command for a time owing to ill health. (10)

In 1758, the colony made greater military efforts. Volunteer companies were raised, some of them in the interior, and at one of such meetings, in Hanover on May 8, 1758, Samuel Davies preached with the view of stirring up recruits. The Virginia regulars, increased to 2,000 men, were divided into two regiments, one of which Washington continued to command, the other under Col. William Byrd, a planter turned soldier, who became a fairly efficient officer. Washington's command was sometimes called the first Virginia regiment, Byrd's the second. The latter organization at Fort Cumberland, on August 3, 1758, numbered 859 men. The officers were Lieutenant-Colonel George Mercer, Major William Peachey, Captains S. Mumford, Thomas Cocke, Hancock Eustace, John Field, John Posey, Thomas Fleming, John Roote, and Samuel Meredith. (11)

Virginia troops formed an important contingent in Forbes's expedition against Fort Duquesne in 1758. His army consisted of 1200 Highlanders, 350 Royal Americans, 2,700 Pennsylvanians, 1,600 Virginians, and several hundred men from Maryland and North Carolina—a total force of 6,000. (12) The Royal American regiment was organized in the colonies and received many recruits from Virginia, for the most part indented servants. The chief feature of Forbes's movement was Major Grant's engagement with the enemy near Fort Duquesne. This officer, who had been sent in advance with a force of 800 men, was totally defeated by the French and Indians, losing nearly half of his command. Major Andrew Lewis and 162 Virginians were present in this engagement; Lewis was taken prisoner and five of the eight other Virginia officers were killed. Captain Thomas Bullitt and his company, by their brave stand, enabled the survivors to get off. Of the 162 Virginians 62 were killed. Bradley says: "The small band of Virginians with Bullitt fought heroically, and were all killed except such as escaped by swimming the Alleghany River." ⁽¹³⁾

Upon Forbes's further advance the French abandoned Fort DuQuesne, and the Indians lost their great base of supplies for raids, which caused a speedy dwindling of hostilities on the English frontier. The year 1758 was the chief year of the war as far as Virginia was concerned, and a considerable force held the field. As the government raised four companies of rangers for defensive work, and as volunteers and militia companies along the whole exposed western and southern regions were in service, besides the 2,000 troops of the regular regiments, it is probable that between 3,000 and 4,000 men were in arms this year,—not a bad showing for a purely border war. Col. William Peachey commanded the newly raised battalion of rangers.

One-half of the 2,000 regulars had been enlisted to serve until December 1, 1758, and supplies had been voted by the assembly for the other thousand until May 1, 1759. This reduction was provided for on the theory that Forbes's expedition would end by December 1, 1758. But as the fall waned with Forbes still far from his goal, the assembly decided that the first regiment might be continued in service outside the colony until January 1, 1759, and that the second regiment, enlisted only until December 1, 1758, might also be used after the expiration of its term of service, provided the rank and file could be induced to continue with the colors. ⁽¹⁴⁾ Fort DuQuesne fell into the hands of the British on November 26, 1758, and the need for the continued service of the time-expired troops was passed. In 1758, Washington resigned his commission and took his seat as a member of the House of the Burgesses, whereupon the ranking officer of the Virginia forces became William Byrd. At the meeting of the assembly in February, 1759, it was determined to fill up the companies of the regiment then in service, and to raise an additional force of 500 men to take the place of the four ranger companies, disbanded. The greater part of this additional force was to remain within the limits of the colony. The assembly of November, 1759, continued the regiment in service until May, 1760.

The next trouble came from the Cherokee Indians, who in 1760 turned from the English alliance and began a war on their own account against the Carolinas and Virginia. Fighting centered around Fort Loudoun in the modern State of Tennessee, which the Cherokees closely besieged. In March, 1760, the Virginia assembly continued the regiment in service until November 1, 1760, besides three companies of 100 men each to guard the frontier. At the hurriedly called session of May, 1760, the assembly resolved to raise 700 men, who, with the 300 already on the border, were to march to Fort Loudoun. Meanwhile Col. Montgomery, commanding a mixed force of British and Carolinians, had defeated the Cherokees and relieved Fort George, but abandoned the attempt to relieve Fort Loudoun, which surrendered to the Indians. The 700 extra troops were not raised, and the Virginia forces consisted only of the regiment already in service. The assembly provided for its maintenance until December, 1760, and allowed the governor to send it out of the colony. Amherst, the British commander in America, concerted an attack upon the Cherokees, to be carried out by Col. Grant from Charleston and the Virginia regiment under Byrd, together with North Carolina troops, from Virginia. Grant was successful, but Byrd did not manage to reach the enemy and resigned on account of the criticism, merited or unmerited, he received. He had under him 600 Virginians in this campaign. ⁽¹⁵⁾ Lieutenant-Colonel Adam Stephen succeeded Byrd in command of the regiment.

The Virginia regiment by 1760 had become an excellent military organization, whatever it may have been at the beginning. In March, 1760, the officers presented a petition to the House of Burgesses in which they mention its reputation: "That by close Application, and a steady Perseverance in the punctual Execution of their Duty, such good Order, Regularity, and strict Discipline (which can alone constitute good troops) have long been maintained in the regiment so as to have attracted the Particular Notice and Approbation of the best Judges; acquired a Superiority over all other Provincial Troops and rendered it universally admired by all with whom it did Duty: This Assertion is clearly evinced, by the behaviour of its officers in the many Actions it has been engaged in, and the Signal Bravery on several, whose gallant Conduct and glorious Deaths redound so much to the Honor of this Colony." ⁽¹⁶⁾ The regiment remained on the Cherokee frontier until early in 1762, when Governor Fauquier disbanded it on receiving word that peace had been concluded with the Indians.

The dying echoes of the Seven Years' War in Europe gave the colonies one more alarm. England had declared war on Spain, and Fauquier, at the meeting of the assembly in March, 1762, asked the colony to raise a regiment to be incorporated into the regiment on "British Capitol Establishments now in America." ⁽¹⁷⁾ The house of burgesses agreed, but the council demurred and only passed the bill creating a regiment of 1,000 men by a single vote. The regiment was raised, and remained for some time on duty in the west, but was disbanded in May, 1763.

It broke up just when needed, for in 1763 the Indians of the whole frontier, acting with a unity they never attained before or afterwards, attacked the British posts from Mackinaw to Fort Pitt, laying waste the settlements of New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Virginia. The Virginia regiment had been disbanded chiefly because the board of trade would not allow the colony to issue the paper money needed for its maintenance, but in August, 1763, the governor and council called out 1,000 militia from Hampshire and the adjoining counties, half of them under the command of Col. Adam Stephen and half under Major Andrew Lewis, both of whom were now officers of the best quality. This force saw a good deal of service, and on one occasion a detachment was cut up by the Indians with heavy loss. ⁽¹⁸⁾

In the summer of 1764, Col. Bouquet, the most energetic and capable of the English officers in the colonies, prepared a retaliatory expedition against the Indian towns along the Ohio. In August, 1764, he wrote to Andrew Lewis to send him two hundred Virginia volunteers to take the place of his deserters. "A body of Virginians, accordingly, joined him at Fort Pitt, to his great satisfaction, for he set a high value on these backwoods riflemen." (19) The Virginia government, which was hard pressed for money, refused to pay the volunteers in Bouquet's army, attempting to make him responsible. Later, the Pennsylvania assembly assumed this debt, Pennsylvania being the great gainer by the suppression of the Ohio Indians. Virginia, indeed, had spent so much money in the French war that she suffered from a financial panic in 1765, for which reason her refusal to assume the obligation is excusable.

Between 1764 and 1774 there was no formal war on the border, though the whites were continually committing aggressions on the Indians and suffering retaliation. This state of affairs culminated in 1774 with a very brisk and stirring little war. On June 10, 1774, Lord Dunmore, the governor, issued a proclamation calling out the militia of the western counties, (20) and went to the frontier to take command in person. The southwestern militia concentrated at Lewisburg. It consisted of the Botetourt forces under William Fleming and those from Augusta under Charles Lewis, besides a company from Culpeper, one from Bedford, and two companies from the Holston; there were 14 companies in all. The veteran Col. Andrew Lewis commanded the whole force, numbering about 1100 men. Meanwhile Dunmore had raised the northwestern militia and found himself at the head of 1200 men.

Lewis advanced northward along the Kanawha to join Dunmore, until on October 6, 1774, he reached the Ohio. The Indians, seeing that the union of Dunmore and Lewis would make them overwhelmingly outnumbered, decided to attack one of the wings before it had joined the other. Accordingly, on October 9, 1774, they attempted to surprise Lewis's camp, but failed, and a fierce battle raged all day. At dark the Indians withdrew, leaving the field in the hands of the backwoodsmen, who made much of a rather indecisive victory. Soon after, Dunmore concluded peace with the red men, who had been disheartened by their failure to destroy Lewis at Point Pleasant. The troops of Dunmore's brigade, so called, continued in service on the frontier sometime longer and, indeed, almost until the colonial age blended into the Revolutionary. In the twenty years of frontier warfare in Virginia, from 1754 to 1774, the efficiency and reputation of the Virginia borderers grew apace. At the end of the colonial era they were considered the best rangers in the colonies, and as Morgan's riflemen won glory in the Revolutionary War wherever they appeared. In this struggle, in which for the first time civilized warfare was conducted in America on a large scale, the eastern Virginians served in large numbers and did well. Many of the best officers and troops in the Continental army came from that formerly inert tidewater section.

This list of colonial soldiers of Virginia begins with a few of the names of the participants in the Cartagena expedition of 1740, recovered from the Journals of the House of Burgesses. The muster-rolls were probably never in the possession of the colonial government and are not now available, if they are in existence at all. A few other names represent the Canadian expedition and the Indian hostilities of the forties. It is not until 1754 that the list begins to be at all full, but starting with that year and running to 1758 the muster-rolls of the Virginia regiment are well preserved. Indeed, the rolls of the companies commanded by Washington and later by Stephen are singularly complete for a period comparatively so remote. For some of the other companies the rolls are not so good, and for the late period they hardly exist.

The rolls of the Virginia regiment are to be found in the Washington Papers in the Library of Congress, and some of them have been printed in the "Virginia Magazine of History and Biography." The other great source for a list of colonial soldiers is Henning's "Statutes at Large," which give, in the 7th and 8th volumes, a jumbled list of names of soldiers, provision providers, wagon drivers, and performers of various other services essential to the welfare of troops; it is with some difficulty that soldiers are detached from the mass of non-combatants. Furthermore, the Statutes are seriously deficient; they frequently mention captains of companies without giving the names of the soldiers, which are thus almost hopelessly lost. As the militia contingents in the Seven Years' War and the succeeding Indian troubles were large, it is probable that as many as several thousand militiamen remain unknown. From time to time, many of these names will be recovered in the county records and will go to swell the published list. It is believed, however, that few members of the Virginia regiment are unaccounted for, as in addition to the company rolls in the Washington Papers there are bounty applications in the Virginia land office, the bound volumes of which were used by Crozier in his "Virginia Colonial Militia," while the loose papers have been copied and made convenient for reference by the Virginia Historical Society. Other sources, such as the "Augusta County Records," and county histories, the "Journals of the House of Burgesses," and the "Journals of the House of Delegates," etc., have contributed some names. Lists of militia not known to have seen active service, a number of which are printed by Crozier, are omitted, as this list is limited to soldiers who actually served in war. The total number of entries is about 6700. Just what number of individuals these figures represent it is difficult to say, but beyond question the Virginia forces were much larger than has usually been supposed. In the present work the general form of the Revolutionary list has been followed, as it has been found convenient for reference purposes.

I wish to thank Miss Edmonia Blair Martin and Mrs. H. L. Goode for their assistance in arranging the cards.

Report of the State Library Board

RICHMOND, VA., October 23, 1917.

To the Honorable HENRY CARTER STUART,
Governor of Virginia.

SIR:

As required by law, I submit the report of the State Library Board for the period of eleven months ending September 30, 1917. Heretofore the library year has ended with the 31st of October, but the board at their last meeting, held November 22, 1916, adopted a resolution to the effect that in the future it should end with the 30th of September. This was done so as to make the library year conform with the fiscal year of the State.

The report consists of an account of the work of the State Library for the period covered, submitted by the chairman of the Library Board, of the report of the State Librarian to the board, and of a compilation containing the names of the members of the General Assembly of Virginia from 1776 to the present time, with those of the several constitutional conventions held in this State, and an index to the whole. This compilation, which it has required no little time and research to make accurate, owing to the fact that the Journals of the House of Delegates and of the Senate did not give lists of members for many years after 1776, is the joint work of Colonel John W. Williams, Clerk of the House of Delegates, and Mr. Earl G. Swem, Assistant State Librarian. It is submitted for publication as a part of the report of the Library Board in accordance with the act of the General Assembly of 1916 allowing the board to have published annually as a part of their report special matter of value from an historical standpoint. This compilation, for many years contemplated by both Colonel Williams and the State Librarian, will be found exceedingly useful by workers in Virginia history.

RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES.

Not counting a balance of $94.71 on hand November 1, 1916, the receipts of the "Library Fund," which includes the total receipts of the library other than from legislative appropriations—that is, from the sale of State publications, fees for copying, fines, sale of bonds, interest on bonds (only $3.00), and royalty on one bronze reproduction of the Houdon statue of Washington—was $4,640.81 for the eleven months, a sum $446.95 in excess of the amount received the whole of the preceding year, but not by any means adequate to the needs of the library, especially when the increased cost of everything purchased is taken into consideration. The expenditures were $4,733.04. Hence there was a balance on hand on October 1 of $2.48. Tabulated statements of the receipts and expenditures of this fund and a tabulated statement of the expenditure, in the period covered by this report, of the amounts appropriated by the General Assembly of 1916 will be found in the Librarian's report.

NOTABLE ACCESSION OF BOOKS.

The most notable accession of books made in the period, and one of the most notable made in the history of the library, consists of one thousand titles, the bequest of the late Colonel R. L. Parrish, of Covington, Virginia. Colonel Parrish directed in his will that one thousand books of his library—a very valuable one—should go to the University of Virginia and one thousand to the State Library. Since he did not specify the individual volumes which should go to each, it was necessary for the librarians of these two institutions to visit Covington and make their selections. This they did on the 21st-23rd of March, and the books and pamphlets acquired by the State Library reached their destination a few days later. Of these, between five and six hundred, Virginiana in the main, were new titles added to our collection, the rest duplicates of titles already here, but in most cases none the less acceptable on that account, since it is our policy to have in the library at least two copies of all Virginia items.

As a permanent record of the items in this way added to our collections, and as a memorial of the benefaction of the donor, a loyal son of Virginia who spent much of his time and means as a collector of her literature, these one thousand titles are submitted to be printed as a part of the Librarian's report.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE LIBRARY.

Only one publication of the library actually appeared in the past eleven months, namely, the library report for 1916, which contains as its most valuable feature the list of Colonial Soldiers of Virginia, but a great deal of work was done on the compilation, referred to above, of the register of the General Assembly of Virginia from 1776 through 1916, on the Quarterly Bulletin, and on the Journals of the Council of Colonial Virginia. All four numbers of the Quarterly Bulletin are now going through the press, being printed as one. The book will be a very bulky one, and possibly it will be necessary, in order to secure convenience in handling, to bind it in two parts. Its title is "Bibliography of Virginia, Part 2," and it contains the titles of all the publications of the State of Virginia through its various departments and agencies from 1776 to the present time, with a full index. In the case of such composite publications as "House Journals and Documents," for instance, an analysis has been made, and the title of each separate document given. This accounts for the size of the volume, and it also gives a hint as to its value. The volume will open the door wide for the student of Virginia history to the treasures of information heretofore concealed in the State's official publications.

As for the Journals of the Council of Colonial Virginia they are the companion volumes of the Journals of the House of Burgesses. By omitting such speeches and communications as have already appeared in the "Journals of the House of Burgesses," merely giving references to the proper pages of the latter volumes, it was hoped that all the Council Journals might be printed in two stout volumes of from six to seven hundred pages each, since the records of the proceedings of the Council were usually much shorter than those of the House; but this has not been found possible. Three volumes will be necessary. The first two of these are now in type, and will be issued in time to save the appropriation made for their publication by the General Assembly of 1916. For the publication of the third volume appropriation will have to be made by the General Assembly of 1918. It is the desire of the board that after the publication of the Journals of the Council as a legislative body is completed the publication of their Journals as an executive body be taken up and carried through. This work will be of as much historical value as that already done, and it is hoped and confidently expected that the General Assembly will make the necessary appropriation from session to session.

USE MADE OF THE LIBRARY.

Statistics of the use made of the library are given in the Librarian's report. These show a decrease when compared with the statistics for the preceding year, the number of visitors to the library for the eleven months being 17,309 as against 24,934 for the corresponding period last year, the number of books served 20,330 as against 25,199, and the number circulated 6,492 as against 9,063. A part of this decrease is undoubtedly to be accounted for by the fact that for several months after the breaking out of the war in which this country is at present engaged (March 27 to July 25) military guards were, in accordance with your excellency's orders, stationed at the library building for the purpose of excluding all persons to whom the slightest suspicion might attach, and all the doors except the main door of the building were locked. While neither these guards nor the doorkeepers who were constantly on duty at the main entrance turned away a great many, their very presence and the knowledge, gained from the newspapers or from report, that the building was closely guarded must have had a deterrent effect on many persons who would otherwise have used the library. A more potent cause of the decrease, however, is the fact that the library finds itself unable to buy any very great number of the new books as they are issued, such books as readers everywhere are calling for. The popular use of the library will not increase much until means be found for the purchase in greater numbers of books which are in demand. As for the use made of the library by research workers, this was as great as ever before, perhaps greater, though it is impossible to give reliable statistics, since serious students are allowed free use of the stack room and a supervised use of our manuscript collection, and have not heretofore been required to report how many books or manuscripts they find occasion to consult. It is to foster this use, which is, after all, so far as this library is concerned, more important probably than the popular use, since the library is primarily, by law, a reference library, that such expensive publications as several numbers of the Quarterly Bulletin, "The Virginia Bibliography, Part 1," and "Virginia Counties," for instance, have been issued by the library. In this they find their justification. However, it is hoped that in the coming years means will be found to foster the popular use very greatly also.

The latest result of what may be called the scholarly use of the library as opposed to the popular use to find its way into print is a work of about 200 pages by Professor C. G. Pearson, printed by the Yale University Press. Professor Pearson found most of the material used by him in this valuable monograph, the title of which is "The Readjuster Movement in Virginia," in the Virginia State Library.

EFFECT OF THE GREAT WAR ON THE ACTIVITIES OF THE LIBRARY.

Though, as has been adverted to above, at least one of the measures which it was deemed by proper authorities advisable to take as a precaution on the outbreak of the war had a temporarily depressing effect on the work of the library, the war has increased the activities of the library as a whole very considerably.

The American Library Association, at the request of the United States Government (through the Secretary of War) determined to raise at least $1,000,000 in the whole country with which to provide libraries for all the camps and cantonments in the United States. The argument in favor of these libraries is that literature of the right kind will have a tremendous influence not only in keeping the soldiers contented in the camps, where they should as far as possible be kept, until they are sent to France, and thus prevented, when off duty, from straying to neighboring cities and towns, where, despite the best efforts of the soldiers' entertainment committees of those communities, they will be subjected to all manner of evil influences, but also in giving them information and inspiration. No soldier could read such a book as the "Spirit of France," by O. M. Johnson, for instance, without being inspired to do his utmost to right a great wrong. These books, then, will add to the morale and efficiency of our fighting forces and will reduce the length of the war.

It was but natural that the American Library Association should appoint as its agent for the direction of the campaign in Virginia to secure Virginia's share of the amount our State Librarian, who is a member of the association. Before this campaign to secure money started, however, a campaign to secure books and magazines to be shipped the soldiers and sailors at once before the American Association libraries became available was begun as an emergency measure, and of this campaign the State Librarian was also asked to take charge. He was later asked, however, to give his attention specially to sending literature to Camp Lee. These two pieces of work, namely, supplying Camp Lee with literature and endeavoring to collect $25,000, Virginia's share of the $1,000,000 to be raised from the whole country, have kept the Librarian unusually busy for the past two or three months and have rendered it necessary for him to divert from time to time the energies of various members of the library staff from their usual work to the satisfaction of these emergency calls.

In the collection of literature the success of the efforts put forth has been considerable. Six shipments have been made to the Y. M. C. A., at Camp Lee. In the aggregate 2,336 books and 5,018 recent magazines have been sent.

The money campaign has not been so successful, though Dr. McIlwaine early enlisted the aid of Mrs. K. P. Minor, formerly reference librarian of the Virginia State Library, and the Virginia Council of Defense directed the several chapters of the Virginia Division of the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense to undertake the work of raising the amounts apportioned to the several cities of the State. The cities being thus provided for in a measure, Dr. McIlwaine endeavored to secure by correspondence an organization in each of the counties. This campaign is still in progress, in the hope that Virginia's contribution to the fund may be a substantial one, even though it fall short of the amount asked for.

WORK OF THE LIBRARY STAFF OTHER THAN THAT ALREADY REFERRED TO.

The cataloguing done in the library in the eleven months covered by this report was mainly that of current accessions, with a few titles of Virginia pamphlets included. The number of titles catalogued was somewhat smaller than it was the preceding year, but the number of cards written was somewhat greater. The total number of cards in the public catalogue on the first of October was 190,448. The cataloguing did not go forward so rapidly as it should have done—and this was the case, too, the preceding year—because the cataloguing force was frequently called on to do other work, mainly work in connection with the Quarterly Bulletin and the register of the General Assembly. During the present year, however, it is expected that considerably more will be accomplished in this branch of the work of the library.

The specific appropriation of $1,500 made by the General Assembly of 1916 for binding has all been expended, and the improvement in the appearance and the condition of a great many of our volumes, including several hundred manuscript volumes, is marked. It really seems, however, as if only a good beginning had been made in giving proper attention of this kind to the items in the library needing it. It is hoped sincerely that the General Assembly of 1918 will continue this appropriation for binding.

The head of the department of serials, who has charge of the binding, was not, after the unusual amount of binding made possible by the appropriation came to an end, burdened with this branch of her work as before, but the number of pieces of mail—serials of all kinds—handled by her was greater the past eleven months than during any previous period of the same length.

In the report made by the State Librarian to the board in 1916 it was stated that the use made of the traveling library collections was less for that year than for the year before, owing, it was thought, to the fact that by the summer of 1915 many of the collections had become by use so unattractive in appearance that some of the local library associations—the borrowers of these collections—allowed their privileges to lapse. In the summer of 1915, however, all the books of this department which were entire so far as their reading matter was concerned were rebound, and the Librarian ventured the prediction that the statistics for the present report would prove satisfactory. This prediction was correct, for in the eleven months covered by this report a greater number of collections was sent out than was sent out the whole of the year before, and there was an increased use made of the books of such of the collections as, on the expiration of their terms of service at the several library stations, were returned to this library—a fact attested by the reports of the local librarians. Four special duplicate sets of ten volumes each on sanitation, hygiene, nursing, and kindred topics were recently purchased at the request of Miss Agnes Randolph, who is connected with the State Health Department, and on the recommendation of Dr. Enion G. Williams, State Health Commissioner, which will be sent from point to point in the State as traveling libraries to be used by classes of women who are being instructed by Miss Randolph and others how to care for the health of their families and communities in the absence of regular physicians in some sections of the State, the result of their enlistment in the army and the navy.

The metal shelving and cases provided for by special appropriation of the General Assembly at the 1916 session have been completed. As was stated in the report of the Librarian for 1916, the price of steel had advanced so much between the time of the voting of the appropriation and that of letting the contract for the work—though the contract was let as expeditiously as possible—that only three-fourths of the work contemplated could be in fact provided for. Hence one wall of the manuscript room is still unfurnished with metal cases.

Despite the fact that the Librarian reported last year that he would be unable to remove from the manuscript room the bound volumes of newspapers in the wooden cases in that room, he has in fact achieved what he before considered an impossibility, and to-day not a bound newspaper is to be found there and the wooden cases have also been removed. Space has been provided for the newspapers in the cases already in the western end of the old reading room, now converted into a stack-room, and in three new cases constructed in that part of the library. This crowds the newspapers somewhat, but it was thought best to make this disposition of them in order to make of the manuscript room a place for the deposit of manuscripts only—except for the periodicals, little used, still on the wooden shelving on the north wall of that room—and a “work shop” for the use of them, a consummation toward which the librarian has been looking forward for years and which the present archivist has been urging since his tenure of office began. The oak vertical filing cases formerly in the center of the room have been removed to the north wall, and the whole of the floor space left free for tables and desks for the use of workers on the manuscripts.

The experiment of allowing the senior students of Westhampton, Richmond, and Randolph-Macon colleges to work in the department of history and archives of the library as apprentices proved successful, and at the beginning of the present session of those colleges the privilege was extended to the junior students by agreement of the members of the Library Board in advance of the regular meeting. Though only two students took advantage of the opportunity afforded them the past year, they, under the supervision of the archivist, appreciably advanced the work of the department and, while doing this, added to their own knowledge of Virginia history and acquired a certain amount of information as to the care of manuscripts. It is thought that the number of apprentices will be larger the present year.

In conclusion, I wish to call your excellency's attention to the fact that the salaries of the members of the staff of the library, hardly adequate before the beginning of the great world war to maintain their recipients in the degree of comfort and respectability which ought to be attained by workers of their intelligence and education, are now, measured by the present prices of all the necessities of life, much too low. While the wages and salaries of most workers in the country have gone up in some sort of proportion to the increase in prices, these salaries have remained the same. It is accordingly suggested that your excellency recommend to the General Assembly an increase in all these salaries of such amounts as will make them equal in purchasing power to what they were before the outbreak of the war.

The Library Board desire to reiterate what has been said in former reports in reference to the need of the library for more ample quarters in a building absolutely fire proof.

The board invite the personal visitation and inspection of the library by your excellency and the members of the General Assembly of Virginia.

Respectfully submitted,

ARMISTEAD C. GORDON,

Chairman.

Report of State Librarian

RICHMOND, VA., October 1, 1917.

To the State Library Board of Virginia.

GENTLEMEN:

The State Library Board at their last annual meeting passed the following resolution: "Resolved, That the library year be made to conform with the fiscal year of the State, which ends on the 30th of September." This report is, accordingly, for a period of only eleven months. In order to save space, the information given is contained mostly in tabulated statements, comment being reduced to a minimum.

GROWTH OF THE LIBRARY.

The number of books, pamphlets, and bound periodicals added during the eleven months to the main collection was 3,311, of which 1,945 were acquired by gift, 820 by exchange, 1,267 by purchase, and 279 by binding. The books purchased cost $632.53. Add to this the cost of subscriptions to periodicals, $576.29, and the cost of binding these into volumes, $291.87, and the total cost of book acquisitions for the eleven months is found to be $1,500.69.

The number of books added to the traveling library department was 84, all of which were purchased. The cost was $141.26.

The total number of books (including pamphlets and bound periodicals) in the library on September 30, 1917, was 114,520.

The total number of maps accessioned was 123, of which 114 were gifts, and nine were bought, at a cost of $27.

There were 113 prints acquired, all by gift.

The manuscripts added numbered 5, 3 of which were given and two acquired by exchange.

One oil portrait was added, the portrait of Norborne Berkeley, Lord Botetourt, Governor of the Colony of Virginia (1768-1770). This portrait, on a canvas measuring 40x50 inches, was painted by Mrs. P. N. Burwell, of Oxford, N. C., from the statue of Lord Botetourt on the campus of William and Mary College. It was presented to the library by his Excellency Governor Henry Carter Stuart.

CATALOGUING THE LIBRARY.

The number of titles catalogued in the past 11 months was 2,824; the number catalogued the previous year was 3,217. The number of volumes catalogued and placed in their proper position on the shelves was 4,013; the number the year before was 5,483. The number of cards written was 14,236 (of which 9,031 were analytical cards); the number the year before was 13,797. The total number of cards now in the public catalogue is 190,448.

USE MADE OF THE LIBRARY.

The tabulated statement below gives the total number of visitors to the library for the eleven months—the term "visitor" being applied both to the person who comes to the library to read or study and to the one who comes merely to look at the various objects of interest—the total number of books served, and the total number circulated. The use made of the traveling library department will be found under a succeeding heading. As heretofore, no statistics as to the number of persons who came to the library to use the manuscript collection are given, since only very recently was the archives room put, by the removal of the wooden newspaper cases formerly in that room and by the addition of tables and chairs, into proper condition for the reception of students, and the great majority of such students had to be accommodated in the reading-room or the stack-room, though a few had their wants attended to in the archives room. The number of such of these students as appeared at any time in the reading room, where our register of visitors is kept, is included in the table, but the special use made by them of the library does not appear. Since now all visitors who wish to use the manuscripts are immediately referred to the archives room, statistics as to the number of these and the classes of manuscripts that they consult will be kept, and will be given in future reports.

The correspondence of the library was about as heavy as heretofore. No attempt was made to keep an accurate account of the number of letters received or of those written, since this would have required a good deal of time which in my opinion was more profitably used in attention to the letters themselves. However, as some indication of the comparative activity in one branch of the correspondence, it may be stated that the collections for copying records—mainly records of Revolutionary soldiers, each record sent necessitating the writing as a usual thing of several letters—amounted to $723.31, whereas for the whole of the preceding year they were only $648.43.

WORK OF THE TRAVELING LIBRARY DEPARTMENT.

There were added to the traveling library department only 84 volumes in the period covered. All these were purchased, at a cost of $141.26. The average cost of the books is to be accounted for by the fact that they were books on hygiene, sanitation, nursing, etc. bought as special traveling library collections to be used by classes in these subjects formed in various parts of the State and instructed by Miss Agnes Randolph, who is connected with the State Health Department, and books on agricultural subjects for the use of farmers' clubs.

There was an increase in the number of counties in which there were traveling library stations, in the number of stations, and in the number of libraries sent out in the eleven months even when compared with the full twelve months covered by the preceding report. The number of counties having one or more stations was 74, as against 70 the year before; the number of stations was 188, as against 179; and the number of libraries (general, school, and special libraries) furnished was 243, as against 241.

WORK OF THE DEPARTMENT OF ARCHIVES AND HISTORY.

The two students of the senior class in history in Westhampton College who, in accordance with the permission granted by the Library Board at their meeting held April 5, 1916, worked a part of the past year in the department of archives and history as apprentices, gave to the library services equivalent to those of a paid assistant for twenty-three full working days of seven hours each. They ascertained the counties in which originated 1,288 of the legislative petitions which before did not have this information marked on them and also the dates of their presentation to the General Assembly. The ascertainment of the date rendered it possible to file each of these petitions in its proper place. They also flat-filed the 1,233 pieces of manuscript comprising the file of election returns for Virginia's representatives in the first and second Confederate congresses, and the 647 comprising the file of election returns from "Votes Taken in the Field" for Davis and Stephens, in November, 1861.

In reference to the file of legislative petitions the archivist reports as follows:

"On June 22, 1917, the general chronological arrangement of the legislative petitions was completed, in so far as the fully identified ones are concerned. These comprise some twenty-one thousand, running from November 8, 1773, to January 31, 1865; in addition to which there are some thirteen hundred partially identified items of the same file, which, when fully identified, will be inserted in their proper places. Other petitions of the same classification are turning up from time to time and are properly assembled with the bulk of this file; and there seems little doubt but that the file, when completed, will contain no less than twenty-five thousand of these original petitions, many of which have accompanying exhibits, vouchers, receipts, etc. For the intimate and detailed history of Virginia, I think that there is no doubt but that this file is more valuable than any other single file in the library; and, after an index shall have been prepared, there will be a constantly growing demand for them."

The metal shelving and filing cases provided for by appropriation of the General Assembly of 1916 was finally completed, and on May 29 the head of the department of archives and history began the work of numbering the several units, of placing in them the manuscript material of the library, and of providing an index. Not all the bound manuscript volumes could be taken to the room, since the cases provided are insufficient in number, but the most important and those most frequently used are provided for, and there is space in the room for all the loose manuscripts.

The archives room is now properly furnished for the accommodation of students, and it is expected that these will make use of its contents in ever increasing numbers. In order to prevent these students from being disturbed by casual visitors to the library and to prevent the time of the archivist from being unnecessarily consumed in making explanations to such, the "no admittance" sign will still be kept at the entrance to the room. This, while not applying to students, will prevent the room from being over-run by mere sightseers.

INTRODUCTORY NOTE

In the compilation of this register, the current records in the office of the Clerk of the House of Delegates have been used, and in addition the following manuscripts in the Virginia State Library: a file of the pay vouchers from 1781 to 1865; the election certificates from 1776 to 1840, with some gaps; auditors' journals after 1780; attendance books kept by the clerk of the house, 1781 to 1898, with some missing volumes; test oaths for the early years, an irregular and incomplete file; senate and house journals, when available, if the printed volumes were missing. The following printed sources have been used: senate and house journals, reports of the secretary of the commonwealth, manuals of the house, manuals of the senate, and the various almanacs. Of the printed sources the almanacs have been used with the most caution, due to the fact that the list for any year was printed in October or November preceeding the beginning of the session, and before the correct list was made up from the election returns by the clerk. For purposes of comparison, the almanac lists have been useful. Sometimes it has been necessary to use all of these sources to determine a question that would arise about a single name. By careful comparison, checking and rechecking, it has been possible to compile a register with only eleven omissions of names of which we are aware. It will be observed that occasionally a county will have three or four names instead of the number to which it was entitled. In early years the election was in April and the session began as late as October or November. It sometimes happened that a delegate elected in April would die or become disqualified by accepting another office before the session began. In such cases his name appears in the proper place as a regular member, and the name of his successor also.

A member was sometimes disqualified after he had been in attendance for a month or more; a special writ of election was issued, and a successor chosen. In such a case both names are in the register. In contested elections where the defendant or seated member was removed, his name properly appears in the register, for the reason that he voted up to the time of his removal, and was paid for his services to that time. The name of a candidate who was not given a certificate by the sheriff, and, therefore, not seated at the beginning of the session, and who contested the election unsuccessfully, is not included.

The reader will find three arrangements of the names:

1. By sessions. At the end of the list of each session there has been added the names of members who died, of those who were removed, and those who were disqualified. These notes have been prepared after careful reading of the journals of each session. A member was not permitted to resign unless for sickness, or for some other very urgent cause. In the early years there are frequent instances of members who accepted minor offices, such as coroner or under-sheriff, with the intention of being disqualified, and removed from the assembly.

2. By counties. This arrangement includes names of delegates only. The inclusion of senators' names was not possible under counties, for the reason that the senatorial districts have sometimes included two or more counties.

3. An alphabetical arrangement of all members, with a statement after each name of the sessions served. In the arrangement of these names much time and labor has been spent. The chief difficulty has been the occurrence of the same names representing different persons. County histories and genealogies and all other resources of the State Library and of the office of the Clerk of the House of Delegates have been exhausted in the determination of questions arising from the similarity of names. Whenever it has not been possible to identify two names as representing the same person, both names have been printed. Later research may show that in some instances the two names belong to the same person.

In the preparation of the Register we wish to acknowledge the services of Miss Virginia Jones, Miss Elizabeth Hundley, Mrs. S. M. Atkinson, Miss Ethel I. Nolin, Miss Dorothy Sage, Miss Elise Clark, and Mr. Harry Van Landingham of the library staff; Mr. Morgan P. Robinson, archivist, gave kindly assistance, and, also, Mr. W. W. Scott, Mr. W. G. Stanard, Dr. Lyon G. Tyler, and Mr. W. C. Torrence. The copies of the lists of members as found in a series of Virginia almanacs from 1776 to date, made under the supervision of Dr. H. R. McIlwaine, have been of much service. Through the courtesy of the Library of Congress many almanacs lacking in the library file were sent to the State Library for examination and copying. We wish also to express our appreciation of the encouragement received from the Hon. J. Taylor Ellyson, Lieutenant Governor and President of the Senate, and the Hon. Harry R. Houston, Speaker of the House of Delegates.

EARL G. SWEM,
JOHN W. WILLIAMS.

(Official records of Union and Confederate armies, Ser. 3, v. 5, p. 14). Governor Smith's letter to Gen. H. W. Pierpont was elected in May, 1863, by western counties, for a four year term; beginning January 1, 1864, he acted as governor for the few counties under federal control, with Alexandria as the capital. - Henry H. Wells. April 4, 1868-March 27, 1869; April 2, 1869-September 21, 1869. H. H. Wells was appointed governor April 4, 1868 by General Schofield (General order 36). On March 27, 1869, he was removed by General Stoneman. On April 2, 1869, he was reinstated by Gen. A. S. Webb, in charge of the first military district before the arrival of Gen. Canby (Special order 66). On September 8, 1869, General Canby appointed Gilbert C. Walker governor to take effect September 21, 1869, "vice H. H. Wells, resigned," (General order 104).
- Gilbert C. Walker. September 21, 1869-January 1, 1874. G. C. Walker was elected for the term beginning January 1, 1870. By general order 104, he was appointed to take office on September 21, 1869.

Sen. j., Dec. 19, 1778. p. 84.

A writ was ordered for the election of a senator for two years from April, 1779, for the district of Westmoreland, Stafford, and King George, to succeed Thomas Ludwell Lee, deceased. Sen. j., May 27, 1778.

Sessions: May 3—June 26, 1779; October 4—December 24, 1779.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES.

Speaker: BENJAMIN HARRISON. EDMUND RANDOLPH was clerk at the beginning of the May session; he was succeeded in that session by JOHN BECKLEY, who continued in the position through 1788.

Authorities: There are no election certificates, no pay vouchers, and no oaths preserved of the May and October sessions of 1779. The principal authority has been the journal of each session. In several instances, however, the information from the journals is incomplete, and it has been necessary to use the list in the Virginia almanac for 1780.

W. R. W. Curle, of Norfolk borough, was elected a judge of the court of admiralty (H. j. June 9, 1779). He was succeeded by John Hutchings.

A writ was ordered for an election in York to fill the place of Gen. Nelson (H. j. May 7, 1779). Gen. Nelson seems not to have been succeeded, for he was a member of this assembly as late as Dec. 22, 1779. There are several references to Innes of York, and Innes of Yohogania, in committee appointments, in the May session. There is no further proof that Innes of York was a delegate in either the May or October sessions. If this was James Innes of York, his appointment as a member of the board of war would have made a vacancy in the York delegation.

The election of Richmond Allen, of New Kent, was declared illegal and void, and a new election ordered. (H. j. May 19, 1779).

Thomas Jefferson, of Albemarle, was elected governor June 1, 1779. An election was ordered June 26, (H. j. June 26, 1779) to fill the vacancy. George Gilmer was elected in his place.

Thomson Mason, of Elizabeth City, resigned June 9, but the resignation was not accepted (H. j. June 9, 1779). He accepted a coroner's commission, and in this way created a vacancy in the house. An election was ordered Oct. 16, (H. j. Oct. 16, 1779). The best evidence we have of a successor is the appearance of the name of William Henry in the place of Elizabeth City, in the list of voting members, Dec. 3, 1779. (H. j. Dec. 3, 1779).

The name of Harry Gaines appears in the list of Dec. 3, and he probably succeeded Abraham Penn, of Henry, who had become an escheator (H. j. Oct. 13, 1779).

Beverley Winslow, of Spotsylvania, accepted the office of canal commissioner (H. j. Oct. 13, 1779). George Stubblefield was his successor.

An election was ordered to fill the vacancy in Fluvanna, Thomas Napier having become an escheator (H. j. Oct. 13, 1779).

Edmund Read, of Charlotte, accepted a military commission (H. j. Oct. 13, 1779). He was succeeded in the house by John Watkins.

An election was ordered to fill the place of Thomas Hite, of Berkeley, deceased (H. j. Oct. 13, 1779).

Francis Peyton, of Loudon, accepted the office of land commissioner (H. j. Oct. 13, 1779). Levin Powell, of Loudon, accepted the position of deputy register of the land office (H. j. Oct. 19, 1779). Josiah Clapham succeeded one of these. He was present Dec. 3, 1779.

Charles Carter, of Stafford, became sheriff (H. j. Oct. 13, 1779). An election was ordered Oct. 13. Jesse Cogbill, of Chesterfield, became an escheator. An election to fill the vacancy was ordered Oct. 19, 1779.

Richard Mitchell, of Lancaster, became coroner. The name of James W. Ball appears in the voting list of Dec. 3, 1779, in the place of Lancaster county, and it is probable that he was the successor of Mitchell. There is no other evidence.

MAY SESSION.

Ordered: "That writs be issued for the election of senators, for one year from the beginning of the present session, for the districts of Dinwiddie, Southampton, and Sussex, and Essex, King William, and King and Queen, in the room of Edwin Gray and George Brooke, esquires, both disqualified." Sen. j., May 11, 1779. p. 5.

Ordered: "That writs be issued for the election of a senator, for one year from April next for the district of Nansemond, Norfolk, and Princess Anne, in the room of James Holt, deceased." Sen. j., May 31, 1779.

The speaker laid before the house a letter from Augustine Claiborne, respecting his being elected a senator for the district of Dinwiddie, Southampton, and Sussex. Referred. Sen. j., June 14, 1779. p. 36. Committee reported that Claiborne was deputy clerk of Sussex county, and, therefore, ineligible. A writ was ordered for the election of a member, to serve one year from the beginning of the present session, in the room of Claiborne. Sen. j., June 14, 1779. p. 36.

OCTOBER SESSION.

Ordered: "That writs be issued for the election of a senator for the district of Lancaster, Richmond, and Northumberland, to serve three years from April last in the room of Thomas Jones, esquire, whose seat is vacated." Sen. j., Oct. 18, 1779.

Ordered: "That writs be issued for the election of a senator for the district of Botetourt, Washington, Montgomery, and Kentucky, to serve for one year from April last in the room of William Fleming, whose seat is vacated." Sen. j., Oct. 18, 1779.

A letter from Francis Lightfoot Lee, respecting his being elected a senator for the district of Lancaster, Richmond, and Northumberland, and of his refusal of the office, was read and ordered to lie on the table. Sen. j., Nov. 30, 1779.

Wilson Miles Cary, of Elizabeth City, was declared ineligible on account of non-residence (H. j., June 3, 1780).

Francis Lightfoot Lee, of Richmond County, was declared ineligible because he had neglected to take the oath of allegiance to the state before election (H. j., May 12, 1780). He was succeeded by Williamson Ball.

Thomas Moore, of Middlesex, was disqualified on the ground of non-residence. He was, however, present in the March, 1781, extra session (H. j., June 2, 1780).

Thomas Mann Randolph succeeded Thomas Underwood, of Goochland, who had become sheriff.

Thomas Lomax, of Caroline, was elected to the council, and a writ was issued for a successor (H. J., Dec. 1, 1781).

Benjamin Harrison, of Charles City, was elected governor, Nov. 30, 1781, and was succeeded by William Green Munford. John Tyler of Charles City succeeded him as speaker.

Carter Braxton, of King William, tried to resign, but was not permitted (H. J., Nov. 22, 1781).

The voucher does not state the county Michael Wallace represented, but it is likely that it was King George.

Isaac Davis, of Albemarle, accepted the position of deputy commissioner of provisions, and by so doing was disqualified (H. J., Nov. 21, 1781). He was succeeded by Thomas Jefferson, who was in attendance from Dec. 10 to 22d. On Dec. 19, 1781, he resigned as delegate to congress (H. J., Dec. 19, 1781).

An election was ordered for Elizabeth City, there having been no sheriff at the time of the regular election (H. J., Nov. 19, 1781).

The seat of Thomas Nelson, of York, became vacant, upon his election to the governorship in June 1781.

There is a voucher of James Garrard for attending the May session, 1781, but the county he represented is not given; there is also a voucher of Henry Peyton for 6 days attendance in May, 1781, session but the county is not mentioned; there is also a voucher of James Wells (Wills) for attending the October session, 1781, without name of county.

The journal (p. 7) shows that Samuel Richardson was present; the county he represented cannot be determined.

The election certificates for 1781/82 have not been found in the archives.

An election was ordered to fill the place of Thomas Gaskins, of Northumberland, who had been elected sheriff (H. j. Oct. 24, 1785). Anthony Beacham was chosen in his place.

An election was ordered to fill the vacancy caused by the choice of Henry Tasewell, representing Williamsburg, to a seat on the general court (H. j. Oct. 24, 1785). James Innes was the delegate selected in his place.

Arthur Lee, of Prince William, was disqualified on the ground of holding an office of profit in the service of the U. S. (H. j. Nov. 1, 1785). Daniel Carroll Brent took his place.

An election was ordered to fill the place of William Brent, deceased, of Stafford, (H. j. Oct. 24, 1785). John Francis Mercer took his place.

Benjamin Harrison, of Charles City, and late governor, was allowed to retain his seat as a delegate from Surry, to which county he had removed (H. j., Nov. 3, 1785).

David Scott, of Monongalia, was declared eligible (H. j. Oct. 26, 1786).

Thomas Pindall, of Monongalia, was declared ineligible, and a new election was ordered (H. j. Oct. 26, 1786). Pindall petitioned the house for reinstatement (H. j. Oct. 30, 1786), but the petition was rejected (H. j. Oct. 31, 1786).

George Pegram, of Dinwiddie, was declared ineligible, and a new election ordered (H. j. Nov. 1, 1786); he was reelected at once, but the house a second time declared him ineligible (H. j. Dec. 27, 1786).

John Lyne, of King and Queen, was declared eligible (H. j. Nov. 9, 1786).

George Mason, of Fairfax, was elected to this assembly but was not present.

Owen Davis, who was present in the later days of the session, probably represented Monongalia in place of Pindall, declared ineligible; there is no pay voucher or election return to show this, the only evidence being the place of his name in the voting list in the journal, which is always arranged by counties.

Andrew Hines was the only delegate from Nelson (in Kentucky); the election return shows no other.

John Cropper was the only delegate present from Accomac; the only authority for Thomas Parramore of Accomac is the Virginia almanac for 1787. There is no election return, and no pay voucher for Parramore.

Samuel Griffin was chosen to represent Williamsburg on Dec. 16, 1786, in the place of James Innes who had been elected attorney-general.

By an act passed Feb. 18, 1817 (Acts of 1816-17, p. 7) the counties were rearranged into new senatorial districts. In some cases a temporary redistricting was necessary for the first election, after which the permanent redistricting was effective. This is the reason for the county of Louisa being in two districts in the present session, in its old district in the first class with Henrico and Goochland, and in the Albemarle district in the fourth class. In this year, and in the following years, the counties are given as they appear in districts in the reports of the committee on privileges and elections. For 1817-18 see senate journal p. 91, 92.

George Hay succeeded William G. Poindexter, who having accepted the office of deputy sheriff, was disqualified. Sen. j. Dec. 2, 1817.

William Bays succeeded William Lee Ball who had been elected a representative in the U. S. Congress. Sen. j. Dec. 2, 1817.

Session: December 7, 1818—March 13, 1819.

Carter Braxton, of King William, was elected in place of William Aylett, who had accepted a post of profit in the continental army. Braxton's name is not usually included in the list of members. He was a delegate in the continental congress, but was also elected to succeed William Aylett in the convention. The election certificate dated June 13, 1776, is in the State Library. Nothing in the convention journal indicates his presence, and the journal of the continental congress of July 9, 1776, shows him present in Philadelphia in July.

A special election for King and Queen was ordered (H. j., May 6, 1776).

Richard Henry Lee, of Westmoreland, a delegate in the continental congress, was also present as a delegate in the last two weeks of the convention.

George Wythe, of Williamsburg, a delegate in the continental congress, was present before the convention closed. Edmund Randolph was his alternate in the convention.

Thomas Jefferson and Benjamin Harrison were members of the continental congress, and though they were also delegates, elected to this convention, they were not present. George Gilmer was the alternate of Jefferson, and Samuel Harwood of Harrison. It is probable that John A. Washington, who was present, was the alternate of R. H. Lee, and William Digges the alternate of Thomas Nelson.

On account of the destruction of the court house no delegates were elected from the borough and county of Norfolk at the regular time. The convention ordered a special election. (H. j., May 6, 1776). Delegates were present before the close of the convention.

Richard Morris, of Louisa, contested the election of William White. The committee reported that he be allowed to represent the county. The report was recommitted, and Mr. Morris afterwards withdrew from the contest (Journal, June 21, 1788).

Thomas Stith, of Brunswick, contested the election of Binns Jones, but was not successful. (Journal June 6, 1788).

Samuel Anderson, of Cumberland, petitioned that the election of Thomas H. Drew, be set aside, on the ground of non-residence. The petition was not sustained (Journal, June 5, 1788).

The name of Thomas Roane appears in the attendance book as one of the delegates from King and Queen, instead of John Roane, as it is in the list printed in the journal. John Roane was only 22 years old at this time, while Thomas Roane had been a member of the House of Delegates in 1781/82. Grigsby gives the name as John Roane. While the list in the journal (p. 4) gives John Roane, the three votes of ayes and noes recorded (p. 20, 22, 38) give Thomas Roane. On the authority of the attendance book, and of these voting lists, the name of the delegate is entered Thomas Roane. John Roane was a member of the house from King William in 1788.

Report of the State Library Board

RICHMOND, VA., October 22, 1918.

*To the Honorable WESTMORELAND DAVIS,
Governor of Virginia,*

SIR:

As required by law, I submit the report of the State Library Board for the year ending the 30th of September, 1918. It consists of an account of the work of the State Library for the year, submitted by the chairman of the Library Board, of the report of the State Librarian to the board, and of the proceedings of the Revolutionary committees of safety of Cumberland and Isle of Wight counties, the only two counties the proceedings of whose committees have been preserved. These proceedings are submitted for publication in accordance with the act of the General Assembly of Virginia of 1916 allowing the Library Board to publish annually as a part of their report special matter of value from an historical standpoint, provided that no report shall contain more than six hundred printed pages. It is estimated that this material will require for its printing only about forty pages. Its historical value, great at all times, is thought to be particularly great just at present, when our country is engaged in war, and when in nearly every county in this State, as in nearly every county in the United States, there is a local council of defense similar in a measure to the local committees of safety of our forefathers. Details of the receipts and expenditures of the library for the year, and of the use made of the library, and most of the details of the work accomplished along the lines of its usual activities are to be found in the report of the State Librarian. A few other details not embraced in that report are given here, with some account of the unusual work of the library arising out of new legislation or out of conditions attendant on the prosecution of the war.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE LIBRARY.

The first two volumes of the "Legislative Journals of the Council of Colonial Virginia" were issued from the press in February, and, the necessary appropriation for the continuation of the work having been made by the General Assembly of 1918, "copy" for the third and last volume was in course of time delivered to the printers. This volume will contain as an appendix such of the "legislative papers" of the colonial General Assembly of Virginia as have been preserved. The volume is still in press, since the printers have been finding great difficulty in having the paper manufactured and, because of embargoes, delivered. It is thought, however, that the book will certainly be completed before the end of the appropriation year. The Report of the Library Board for 1917, containing the "Register of the General Assembly of Virginia, 1776-1918," came out in June, and the "Bibliography of Virginia, Part 2", which is numbers 1, 2, 3, and 4 of vol. 10 of the Quarterly Bulletin of the Virginia State Library—the volume for 1917—followed in August. Both these publications have proved exceedingly useful to all who have had occasion to consult them, and especially so to members of the library staff, who are almost daily called on to furnish information which may now be readily found in one or the other of the publications. The wisdom shown in having them compiled and printed has been amply proved though they cost a good deal of money part of which might otherwise have been expended in the purchase of books, and have necessitated the expenditure of much time some of which consisted of time which might otherwise have been devoted to the work of cataloguing the library, a work which has not been going forward for the past two or three years so rapidly as could be wished. So far as this is concerned, however, the work done on these publications, especially that done on the "Bibliography of Virginia", did not differ greatly in itself from the work of cataloguing, and not at all in its purpose, since this was to render available the contents of the library. Nos. 1 and 2 of vol. 11 of the Bulletin (vol. for 1918), printed as one, have also been issued. The title is "A Contribution to the Bibliography of Agriculture in Virginia".

From now on for several years, until the cost of printing comes down very considerably, it will be the policy of the board to reduce the number of pages going to make up a volume of the Bulletin, and also the size of the annual report.

THE CONFEDERATE MILITARY RECORDS.

In the appropriation act passed by the General Assembly at its 1918 session appear the following paragraphs:

"The department of Confederate records is hereby abolished, and the reference books, muster rolls, record books, and equipment of said department shall be forthwith delivered by the Adjutant General of Virginia to the library board, who shall take over and receive the same in the State Library.

"The said muster rolls and the record books shall be deposited and kept in the historical archives of the library, and it shall be the duty of the librarian, who shall be the custodian of said records, to make a complete index of the names of Confederate soldiers contained in said record books, so that the same may be ready reference to those seeking information.

"It shall be the duty of said librarian to furnish a certificate certifying the record of a Confederate soldier as the same shall appear upon said records when applied to for such certificates.

"For the purpose of carrying out the foregoing provisions, the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated."

In accordance with this provision all the material which had been collected by the two secretaries of Confederate Military Records was on April 4 transferred by the Adjutant General to the library. Preparation of a card index of the names contained in the twenty large ledger volumes into which the names had been copied from the original muster and pay rolls and non-official rolls made up from memory since the close of the War between the States, about 140,000 names altogether, it is estimated, was begun as soon as possible. No appropriation was made for the employment of additional assistants to help in this work, and hence till its completion the regular work of the library will be retarded. However, the work is a very important one—essential, in fact, if the records are to be readily used. By the 30th of September somewhat more than 17,000 cards had been written, and it is hoped that the work will be completed in two years.

EFFECT OF THE WAR ON THE ACTIVITIES OF THE LIBRARY.

Those connected with the State Library, in common with most of their fellow Americans, are doing what they can to help win the war. Though it has so far been the privilege of only one member of the staff to go into active service—Mr. H. S. Van Landingham, who is at present in France with Base Hospital No. 45 (the McGuire Unit, fitted out in Richmond) and whose position is, of course, being held for him till his return—there is scarcely one whose duties are not largely affected by the fact that the country is at war. Many soldiers and sailors visit the library as sight-seers; not a few call for books and use them in the reading room; some become borrowers. So far as men in the service are concerned, the library has become a free public library, the uniform being considered by the State Librarian a sufficient introduction to warrant his endorsing the wearer of it as an applicant for the privilege of borrowing books. He reports that no loss of books has resulted from this practice except in one instance, and in that a soldier of the United States was not involved, but a man wearing the Canadian uniform who proved to be an impostor. This man borrowed two books and failed to return them.

Those members of the staff whose duty it is to attend to the wants of the public find increasing occasion to serve "war" books (that is, books about the causes and the conduct of the war or about the countries at war) and to suggest the titles of books if the borrowers do not know specifically what they wish. As many books of this description have been purchased as the resources of the library have allowed, as well for the traveling library department as for the main collection. The thought has been kept to the fore that the reading of such books by the users of the traveling library collections, whose opportunities to secure books are rather limited, would have a distinct educational and inspirational value of a timely character.

The report last year gave an account of the connection of the State Librarian with the library war service of the American Library Association. At the time at which that report was written the campaign to secure Virginia's allotment of the sum desired to be raised by the American Library Association with which to provide a library service for our men in uniform had not ended. Of this campaign the State Librarian was director in Virginia. Virginia had been asked to furnish twenty-five thousand dollars of the one million purposed to be raised in the whole country—2½ per cent. There was actually raised in the State before the campaign closed somewhat more than fifteen thousand dollars, 1½ per cent. of the total asked for from the whole country and about 1 per cent. of the amount actually secured, which was a little over one million five hundred thousand dollars exclusive of the amount secured from the Carnegie Endowment fund with which to erect buildings. Virginia did not furnish the amount asked for, but this amount was far in excess of what it should have been had the assessment been made in proportion to the wealth of the State as compared with the wealth of other States. This is proved by the fact that in the United War Campaign which is soon to be carried on for the purpose of securing one hundred and seventy million five hundred thousand dollars in the United States for the use of seven organizations conducting welfare work among our soldiers and sailors, Virginia's share is only one million five hundred thousand dollars, which is a little less than eighty-eight one-hundredths of one per cent. This apportionment is made in accordance with the wealth of the State, as it should be, and not in accordance with the population. If this rate, a fair one, had been fixed by the American Library Association last August a year ago, Virginia would have been asked for only eight thousand eight hundred dollars. Accordingly, the State not only furnished its fair share of the sum raised but a considerable amount in addition.

The United War Work Campaign is to be carried on in Virginia in the week beginning November 11 by a central executive committee composed of representatives of the seven affiliated organizations and a small number of the leading citizens of the State, with Mr. T. M. Carrington, of Richmond, as chairman of the committee, and your excellency as honorary chairman, and by local committees made up in the same way of representatives of the seven organizations. On this executive committee the State Librarian is the representative of the American Library Association. Although the campaign is not to take place till the week beginning the 11th of November, a great deal of work has already been done toward effecting a thorough organization throughout the State, and a part of this work has been done by the State Librarian and one or two of his assistants both in library hours and at other times. It has been considered by the librarian—and in this thought he has been encouraged by the members of the Library Board—that it was perfectly proper for him to engage in patriotic work of this character during library hours, so long as the normal work of the library was not allowed to suffer, and to divert to it in emergencies some of the energies of his assistants.

This accords with the letter of instructions which your excellency sent the State Librarian on February 8, 1918, informing him of his appointment as a member of the State Council of Defense, and with the following resolution adopted on March 1 by the Council of Defense:

"Resolved: That the effort of the American Library Association, made at the request of the Government of the United States, to secure an adequate supply of books for the use of the United States soldiers, sailors, marines, and hospital attendants in the present war against Germany has the cordial endorsement of the Virginia Council of Defense, and that the Council hereby appoint Dr. H. R. McIlwaine, Librarian of the Virginia State Library, its representative to co-operate with the American Library Association in the prosecution of this important work in Virginia."

By virtue of this resolution the librarian has been making use also where possible of the services of the executive secretary of the State Council of Defense, through whose co-operation he is securing the American Library Association members of the local United War Work committees. Before the appointment of an executive secretary of the Council of Defense he had the co-operation of the individual members of the council, and especially of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, in an effort made in March and April to secure gift books for the men in service. The Superintendent of Public Instruction enlisted the aid of the high schools in the State, and about thirty thousand books were collected by their pupils. Such of these as were found suitable were sent to Camp Lee or to Newport News direct from the communities in which they were collected, and from Newport News sent overseas. Those collected in Richmond, about twelve thousand in number, were first brought to the State Library, where such of them as could be used, and these were probably three-fourths of the entire number, were prepared for circulation—that is, had book labels, book pockets, and borrowers' cards placed in them—and shipped as they were made ready either to Newport News or to Hoboken, with the exception of about five hundred which were sent to the Army and Navy Club in Richmond or to the quarters of the 635th Aero Squadron near this city. The examination of this large number of books, and the preparation of the majority of them for circulation, was a work of considerable magnitude. It was performed in the main, not by members of the library staff, who would not have had the time to undertake it, but by competent volunteers from among the ladies of this city. By the end of the summer the great congestion had been relieved, though even now there are a good many gift books for the soldiers in the library, most of which, however, are books which have come in since the special "drive" was ended.

The Assistant Librarian, Mr. E. G. Swem, has been serving the whole year as library publicity director for Virginia of the Federal food administration, distributing to the various libraries of the State, including the high school libraries, literature and posters designed to impress the necessity of conserving the food supply of the country in every way possible, and he has been assisted in this work when necessary by various employees of the library. About six weeks ago a request came from the director of the American Library Association Library War Service that Mr. Swem be allowed a leave of absence for three months in order that he might take charge for that length of time of the library at Camp Wadsworth. The members of the Library Board were willing to grant Mr. Swem this amount of leave with pay, but the opinion was expressed by the attorney general's office that this could not lawfully be done. Accordingly, he was granted by the librarian leave for two weeks with pay, the amount of vacation which could at that time be allowed him, and a further leave of two and one-half months without pay. He left the library on the 10th of September, and, will be back, it is expected, on the 10th of December, after his three months' term of service at Camp Wadsworth. In the meanwhile others at the library are doing his food administration work.

THE NEED FOR MORE SPACE.

When, more than a year ago, it was determined by the State Librarian to remove all the bound newspapers from the archives room, it was necessary, in order to find a place for them, to take from the cases in the western part of the old reading room our set of "Specifications and Drawings of Patents," over a thousand large volumes, to a storage room in the Davis building. Later a good deal of other material was also taken there. Since the Davis building was given up by the State much of this material has been removed to the storage room of the Secretary of the Commonwealth in the Mutual building, but that room is already overcrowded, and no space can be found for the patent office books. Unless the library is to rent a storage room of its own, and it has no money to expend for this purpose, the only thing that seems to be feasible now is to return the books to the Patent Office. They are still the property of the United States government, having merely been deposited in the State Library, and we shall be unable to make any use of them until an addition is made to this building, or, better, a new building is erected. Our need for additional space is an absolutely urgent one.

In conclusion the Board invite the personal visitation and inspection of the library by your excellency and the members of the General Assembly of Virginia.

Respectfully submitted,

ARMISTEAD C. GORDON,
Chairman.

Report of the State Librarian

RICHMOND, VA., October 1, 1918.

To the State Library Board of Virginia.

GENTLEMEN:

I have the honor to submit the following report of the work done in the Virginia State Library for the year ending September 30, 1918, the information given being thrown as far as possible, in order to save space, into the form of tabulated statements.

GROWTH OF THE LIBRARY.

The number of books, pamphlets, and bound periodicals added to the main collection during the year was 2,891, of which 1,166 were acquired by gift, 997 by exchange, 520 by purchase, and 258 by binding. The books purchased cost $840.75. Add to this the cost of subscriptions to periodicals, $511.37, and the cost of binding these into volumes, $217.85, and the total cost of book acquisition for the year is found to be $1,569.97.

The number of books added to the travelling library department was 842, all of which were purchased except 7. The cost was $157.71.

The total number of books (including pamphlets and bound periodicals) in the library on September 30, 1918, was 118,253.

The total number of maps accessioned was 66, of which 65 were gifts, and only one was purchased, at a cost of $2.70.

There was only one print accessioned, and this a gift.

One oil portrait was added, the portrait of Governor Henry Carter Stuart.

The accession book of the department of archives and history shows fifteen entries, two of which, however, cover material merely transferred to the archives room from the stack room. Several of the entries refer to collections of many pieces, an actual count of which, however, it has not been thought essential to make. Of these manuscript items the majority came by gift. Three, however, came by exchange and one by purchase—the "Abercrombie Letter Book from August 3, 1746, to March 3, 1773." The cost was $50. This very interesting volume contains copies of the letters of James Abercrombie, agent in England of the governor and Council of Virginia from 1754 to 1770, written by him to officials in Virginia.

CATALOGUING THE LIBRARY.

The number of titles catalogued in the year was 3,592; the number of separate volumes, 4,171; the number of cards written, 10,249. The figures from the preceding report to be compared with these are 2,824, 4,013, and 14,236, respectively.

THE WORK OF THE TRAVELING LIBRARY DEPARTMENT.

The number of counties in which traveling library stations were maintained was 54. The number of stations served was 141. The number of collections sent out was 164. This shows a falling off as compared with the figures from the preceding report, which are 74, 188, and 243, respectively. The decrease is no greater, however, than one would expect who appreciates the obstacles to good service met with in the shape of railway embargoes. The head of the traveling library department has this to say on that subject in the report made by him to me:

"The distribution of traveling library collections is always accompanied with difficulties, but it has been our pride constantly to improve the character of the books and widen their distribution. Heretofore we have succeeded in doing this from year to year, but for this past year we must humbly confess a decided retrograde movement in the distribution of sets. The war conditions of the transportation companies have created difficulties too great to be overcome. Railroad embargoes have cut off some sections of the State for all the time and nearly all sections for part of the time. A large proportion of the boxes, both going and coming, have encountered long delays, very harrassing to actual borrowers and very discouraging to prospective applicants for sets."

In addition, some time after the control of the railroads was taken over by the Federal government, an order was issued to the effect that after the 15th of October the free transportation of the boxes should cease, and several of the roads have anticipated the date of the execution of the order. The chairman of our State Corporation Commission has taken the matter up with the proper Federal authority, and it may be that he can get the order rescinded, though I am not sanguine. If the order stands, the local associations and schools which borrow the collections will have to pay the cost of transportation.

WORK OF THE DEPARTMENT OF ARCHIVES AND HISTORY.

Whereas the number of "archival apprentices" from Westhampton College for the session of 1916-17 numbered only 2, there were 12 for the session of 1917-18, some of these being juniors and some seniors. The young ladies worked well, assigning dates to 1,036 of the undated legislative petitions and flat-filing 1,455 pieces of manuscript in various other classifications. The number of hours that they worked amounted to 480 less 2 hours, which is the equivalent of the work of one person for 10 weeks. It will be seen, accordingly, that the benefit to the library was not inconsiderable. The benefit to the apprentices was considered satisfactory by all concerned.

This is the first report in which it has been possible to include statistics in reference to the number of persons making use of our manuscript material. However, the archives room has been for the past year furnished with sufficient accommodations for visitors and a register has been kept. The register shows that 503 actual users of the manuscript material worked in the room from time to time during the year. A "user" sometimes stays for only a few minutes, but sometimes for the whole day. Having once registered, however, he is counted only once for purposes of statistics whether he stays only a few minutes or works off and on in the room the whole day. He is required, however, to register again the next day should he return, and so is counted again. Hence the 503 "users" do not represent 503 different persons. These workers, however, registered from 25 States and the District of Columbia. They examined 642 classifications of manuscript material, or an average of two and one-tenth classifications for each working day. It should be pointed out in this connection that one "classification" may cover a great many different manuscripts.

There are among the users of our manuscripts not a few who furnish the department of archives and history notes and data concerning the condition of records in the various counties of the State and even inventories of the contents of the clerks' offices of these counties. This kind of material is of very great service here to those workers who contemplate going for information to the clerks' offices. It sometimes saves them unnecessary trips.

The Confederate records were placed in the archives room on April 4, 1918. Since that time the pay rolls and muster rolls, original and secondary (or non-official), and accompanying material have been filed in metal boxes, and a good beginning has been made on the work of card-indexing the 20 large ledger volumes into which the muster rolls had been copied before the records were transferred to the State Library. The work of indexing began on June 14, and between 17,000 and 18,000 index cards were written up to September 30, the work of writing the cards being done by assistants under the supervision of the State Archivist.

The General Assembly at its last session passed an act allowing the custodians of local records to transfer such of them as had ceased to be current to the State Library. Not long after the adjournment of the Assembly a circular letter was sent by me to each county and city court clerk in the State, with a copy of the law, and second letters were sent to some. Only a very few responded, and the majority of these said that they had no records which might be transferred. The clerk of the court of Henrico county, however, was very favorable to the plan and secured from the board of supervisors authorization to transfer to the library all the records of the county to the year 1781. The actual transfer has not been made, however, since the clerk is waiting for the Judge of the county, who has been absent, to sign the order. It is thought that when Henrico sets a precedent some of the other counties may follow.

PREFACE

The first Continental Congress, which met on the 5th of September, 1774, adopted on the 20th of October a paper called the "Association". This was in its most important features a strict non-importation, non-consumption, and non-exportation agreement made by the delegates of the various English colonies in America in reference to all articles of trade with Great Britain and signed on behalf of themselves and their constituents, the several parts of which were to be put into effect at different dates, and were to remain in effect till certain oppressive acts passed by the British Parliament should be repealed. It had, however, additional provisions, looking to the promotion of agriculture and manufactures, the discouragement of extravagance and dissipation, and, generally, the strengthening of the inhabitants of the colonies for the struggle which had been entered into with the mother country. The necessity that there should be local agencies for the execution of the "Association", in addition to the committees of correspondence already in existence in the several colonies, caused the insertion in the document of a provision that a committee should be chosen in each county, city, and town in the country by those qualified to vote for representatives in the popular houses of the general assemblies of the colonies, whose business it should be "attentively to observe the conduct of all persons touching this Association", and to bring the force of public opinion to bear against violators.

In accordance with this provision of the "Association" local committees were formed very shortly all over the land, and the way in which they carried out the suggestions or directions made by the Continental Congress and by provincial congresses or conventions may be seen in the Cumberland and Isle of Wight proceedings which follow. The Virginia county committees soon became, when in the further progress of the revolution the several agencies of royal government disintegrated, the actual governments in great measure of their respective communities till the provisions of Virginia's first constitution, adopted by representatives of her people in June, 1776, went into effect. They were at first called committees of observation, or committees of inspection, or committees of inspection and observation, or committees for carrying out the provisions of the "Association", or merely committees, but in course of time, after the formation of the central Committee of Safety by the Virginia Convention on August 24, 1775, they came to be referred to as local committees of safety.

Of the proceedings of these committees, though not a few extracts from them, in the form, particularly, of important resolutions, are to be found in the "Virginia Gazette" and the "American Archives", only those for Cumberland and Isle of Wight counties have, so far as is known by the writer of this preface, been preserved; and these not in their entirety, but in sufficient fullness, happily, to give to them a very great value. Enough remains to show how these two committees conducted business, and what business was considered within their province. The proceedings of these two may undoubtedly be taken as examples of the proceedings of all the other committees, which now, unfortunately, are lost.

The proceedings of the Cumberland Committee are recorded in a manuscript volume now in the Virginia State Library, which came into the possession of the library in 1893. It was at that time in a very dilapidated condition, and lacked the first eighteen pages, the first proceedings remaining being those for the eighteenth of February, 1775. Two years ago it was beautifully repaired, however, by an expert and handsomely bound, and will now withstand the further ravages of time for many years to come. The proceedings extend only through page 64 of the book, the rest of the book being filled with writs, attachments, and other legal forms not related in any way to the proceedings. Some later clerk of the court, in a scarcity of good writing material with which we in the present great world war are not strangers, made use of the book for a purpose different from the one to which it had first been put.

Nothing has been found in the "Virginia Gazette" or elsewhere to fix the date of the election of the committee or that of its first meeting, but each of these took place, probably, the latter part of November or early in December, 1774. Accordingly, the eighteen missing pages of the book contained originally the proceedings of meetings taking place in the first two and one-half months of the existence of the committee.

The book was not used from the date of the very first meeting as a record book, as is seen from an order adopted by the committee on the 29th of February, 1776, as follows: "Ordered, that the whole Proceedings of the late Committee of this County; and also of this present Committee be fairly transcribed by the Clerk in a Book or Books of Record to be kept for that Purpose: And also, that all Letters which come directed to the Chairman of this Committee, or to the Committee, for the Use of this Committee, be communicated to the Committee at their next Sitting, and filed by the Clerk of the Committee in his Office". The proceedings as they appear in the book are, accordingly, copies of the originals, which were written on loose sheets of paper. They are all attested, however, by Thomas Miller, clerk of the committee, by whom they were copied into the permanent book of record.

The most interesting paper to be found in the Cumberland proceedings is the set of instructions given the two representatives of Cumberland County in the Virginia Convention which met the 6th of May, 1776. They were drawn up by Mr. Carter Henry Harrison, member of a sub-committee appointed for the purpose, and reported to the committee and approved on the 22nd of April, and then adopted by the freeholders of the county. They are as remarkable for their great determination of purpose as are any of the similar instructions given about the same time to other delegates to the Convention by their respective committees and constituents. They declare unequivocally for absolute independence of Great Britain, in the following language: "We therefore your Constituents instruct you positively to declare for an Independency; that you solemnly abjure any Allegiance to his Britannic Majesty, and bid him a good Night for ever; that you promote in our Convention an Instruction to our Delegates, now sitting in Continental Congress, to do the same".

It was on the 5th of April that the sub-committee, of which Mr. Harrison was chairman, was named. Hence the paper was written sometime between the 5th and the 22nd of April. Taking, however, the date of approval of the paper by the committee as the proper date to be assigned it, namely, the 22nd of April,—and that, too, appears to be the date of adoption by the freeholders of the county in mass meeting assembled,—it antedates by one day the similar set of instructions given by the committee and the freeholders of Charlotte County to their representatives in the Convention on the 23rd of April—which are about as out-spoken for independence as the Cumberland instructions—and they antedate any other set of Virginia instructions which has been found. Individuals had been advocating complete independence for some time, but the distinction of the Cumberland resolutions consists in the fact that they were the first to be adopted by a responsible public body in Virginia calling on their representatives to declare independence.

It will be noticed that the Cumberland instructions contemplated a declaration of independence first by the Virginia Convention itself, so far as Virginia was concerned, and then a further declaration by the Continental Congress for the whole country. It was thought best, however, by the leaders in the Virginia Convention, and in this they were wise, that the declaration should be made by the central body, since this would not only impress the British government and the world at large with the apparent unity of sentiment in America but would in itself have a strong tendency to foster this unity in the further prosecution of the war.

The Virginia Convention met on the 6th of May, 1776, and promptly, on the 7th, resolved that on the following Friday (the 10th) it would resolve itself into a committee of the whole to take into consideration the state of the Colony. On Friday this order of the day was postponed till Saturday; on Saturday, till Monday; and on Monday, till Tuesday, the 14th. The committee then sat on Tuesday and again on Wednesday. At the close of the Wednesday meeting Mr. Archibald Cary, the chairman of the committee, reported the resolutions agreed upon, which were at once unanimously adopted by the convention. One of these resolutions was the famous resolution instructing the Virginia delegates in Congress "to propose to that respectable body to declare the United Colonies free and independent states", in accordance with which Richard Henry Lee submitted his even more famous motion to Congress on the 7th of June, which was followed in due course by the Declaration of Independence.

The Virginia Convention adopted its resolution on the 16th of May. Even before this, however, and even before any Virginia county committee or meeting of freeholders, so far as is known, had instructed its delegates to move for independence, the Provincial Congress of North Carolina had, on the 12th of April, adopted unanimously the following resolution: "Resolved, That the delegates for this Colony in the Continental Congress be empowered to concur with the delegates of the other Colonies in declaring Independency, and forming foreign alliances, reserving to this Colony the sole and exclusive right of forming a Constitution and laws for this Colony, and of appointing delegates from time to time (under the direction of a general representation thereof), to meet the delegates of the other colonies for such purposes as shall be hereafter pointed out." Thus to North Carolina belongs the honor of priority in the matter of instructions of delegates. Her delegates were, however, not instructed to move for independence, but "empowered to concur with the delegates of the other colonies in declaring independency", whereas Virginia's delegates were instructed to make the motion, and they acted in accordance with their instructions.

The "Journal of the Convention of May, 1776" gives no details of the debate held in the committee on the adoption of the resolutions, but a manuscript history of Virginia has been left by Edmund Randolph, a member of the Convention, which gives some account of the proceedings of the committee, and there are a few other sources of information. They do not disclose, however, the part taken in the debate, if any, by Mr. John Mayo or Mr. William Fleming, the two delegates from Cumberland, who were content to follow the leadership of Patrick Henry, Edmund Pendleton, Thomas Nelson, and others. The resolutions were agreed to unanimously by the one hundred and twelve members present out of a total membership of the Convention of one hundred and twenty-eight. Hence it is almost certain that the two members from Cumberland voted for them.

The proceedings of the Isle of Wight Committee are recorded in a book in the clerk's office of Isle of Wight County whose contents are even more miscellaneous than are the contents of the Cumberland book, since it contains, in addition to the committee proceedings, tax records, land line records, and marriage records. Nor are the proceedings so nearly complete as are those for Cumberland, the first date being January 13, and the last, July 27, 1775. They are, however, so far as they go, of equal interest and value. As is the case with the Cumberland proceedings, they are evidently slightly postponed copies of loose sheet originals. The handwriting seems to show this, the name of the chairman, "John Sck. Wills", being written in each case by the same person who wrote the minutes themselves, and just before the name there being in each case inserted the formula, "The Minutes of these proceedings were signed". Moreover, the proceedings for the 15th of May appear twice, the second time, however, under date of June 15. The theory is that this duplication was merely the mistake of a careless copyist. The proceedings are printed only once in the following pages, and under the date of May 15, that being beyond doubt, from references in the proceedings of the next meeting, the correct date.

Because of their great historical value, the two sets of proceedings should have been printed long ago. Since this has not been done, however, their publication at the present time seems almost imperative. It will not be long, it is to be hoped, before the proceedings of some at least of the local councils of defense brought into being in the prosecution of the war with Germany are given to the public, and a comparison of the activities of these bodies with the activities of the committees of our forefathers will be extremely interesting and instructive.

Cumberland Committee Proceedings

At a Committee held for Cumberland County the 18th day of February 1775.

Present. George Carrington, Chairman, William Fleming, Littleberry Mosby, John Mayo, Joseph Carrington, Richard James, Carter Henry Harrison, George Carrington Junr., John Netherland, Robert Smith, Maurice Langhorne, Benjamin Wilson, Joseph Calland, Frederick Hatcher, Edward Carrington, John Woodson, the Rev. John Hyde Saunders, Charles Woodson, Junr.

Resolved, That Friday the tenth day of March next be appointed for the Freeholders to meet at the Court House to elect Delegates to attend the Convention to meet at Richmond the twentieth day of March, and it is recommended to all the Freeholders to attend accordingly.

Resolved, That the Members of this Committee now present will give a Premium of three Shillings per pound to the first Person or Company of Persons who shall within eight Months from the date hereof produce to this Committee or the Chairman thereof fifty Pounds weight of good Gunpowder manufactured in America on due proof that the same was made wholly of American Materials.

Resolved, That the defenceless State of this Country renders it indispensably necessary that a Quantity of Ammunition should be immediately provided; and as the same will be for the common Benefit, Defence and Protection thereof, it is but just and reasonable that the Expences incurred in procuring the same should be defrayed by a general and equal Contribution; and whereas in the present confused State of this Colony, no Method hath been adopted, nor Powers created to levy Monies to put this Colony in a Posture of Defence against the oppressive Measures of the British Parliament: It is the Opinion of this Committee that William Fleming, John Hyde Saunders, Edward Carrington, Carter Henry Harrison do draw up and prepare proper Instructions empowering the Delegates to be elected for this County to attend the Provincial Convention at Richmond on the 20th of March next and concur with the Delegates of the other Counties for laying what * * * * Exigencies of the Colony may require and in making such * * * as they shall think necessary for the Well being and support thereof: And that each Member of this Committee shall furnish himself with a Copy of the same and use his utmost Endeavours * * * * The Freeholders of this County to sign it. That the Members of this Committee if they meet with any Person or Persons who shall refuse to be agreeable to this Resolution, they shall take Notice of * * * * Names of such Person or Persons and give them in to the next Committee held for this County, to the End that the Enemies to America may be known.

Resolved, That this Committee do approve the Association formed * * * and other Proceedings of the Continental Congress held at Philadelphia the 5th day of September last past and that they adopt the same as their Rule of Conduct and that an Address be drawn in behalf of themselves and their Constituents to the Delegates from this Colony, by William Fleming, John Hyde Saunders, Edward Carrington and Carter Henry Harrison expressing their most grateful Sense of the important Services they have rendered their Country in the present alarming Conjunction of Affairs.

Resolved, That each Member of this Committee be answerable for and pay his Proportion of fifteen Pounds for the Support of the Provincial Delegates who shall be appointed to attend the Continental Congress at Philadelphia in May next, and that the same be paid to the Delegates from this County on or before the 20th day of next Month.

Ordered, That Mr. Langhorne and Mr. Calland Members of this Committee do wait upon Henry Macon who was one of the said Committee chosen by the Freeholders, and that the Rev. John Hyde Saunders do wait upon Richard Eggleston and Edward Haskins who were likewise chosen, to know whether the said Macon, Eggleston and Haskins will sign the Association and accept their Places as Committee Men; and if they refuse, to know the Reason of their Refusal and report the same to the Committee.

Resolved, That wherever a Suspicion arises that any Merchant in this County hath infringed the Association of the late Continental Congress, the Person or Persons who suspect the said Merchant of such Misconduct, do make Information thereof to any three or more of this Committee, and if upon Enquiry they think that the same is well grounded they forthwith inform the Chairman and he summon the Committee of this County to take the same under their Consideration.

"To the Honourable Peyton Randolph Esq., Richard Henry Lee, George Washington, Patrick Henry junior, Richard Bland, Benjamin Harrison and Edmund Pendleton Esqrs. the Delegates from this Colony who attended the Continental Congress held at Philadelphia September 5th, 1774.

Gentlemen, Permit us, in Behalf of ourselves and our Constituents, to acknowledge our grateful Sense of your faithful Discharge of the Trust reposed in you by the unbought Suffrages of your Countrymen. In the important Duties you have rendered them at the present alarming Crisis of Affairs. We beg Leave to declare our full Approbation of, and hearty Concurrence in, the prudent and pacific Measures adopted by the late Continental Congress, of which you formed so respectable a Part, and to assure you that we will exert our utmost Diligence and Zeal to carry the same into Effect; at the same Time when we reflect on the Manner in which the Schemes agitated against the Colonies for their Destruction have been conducted, we should be greatly wanting in our Duty and Prudence did we not extend our Views to the most unhappy Events and endeavour, as far as Circumstances will permit, to prepare for every Contingency.

With Hearts deeply impressed with the Pleasure of handing down to Posterity your Names and those of your worthy Brethren of the Congress, as the Friends and Guardians of your Country, of beholding your wise Measures applauded and adopted by every City, Town and County throughout British America; and overflowing with the warmest Wishes for every Blessing on you and your Posterity, we beg Leave to assure you that we shall be ready to risque our Lives and Fortunes in your Defence when any personal Insult shall be offered you by the Tools of an incensed and corrupt Administration; and that we are your affectionate Countrymen, and much obliged humble Servants."

Resolved, That the Committee approve of the said Address, and that it be transmitted to the Printers to be published in the Virginia Gazettes.

At a meeting of the Committee for Cumberland County on Friday the * * * * of April 1775. Present, George Carrington Chairman, Littleberry Mosby, John Mayo, Joseph Carrington, Carter Henry Harrison, Richard James, James Pleasants, George Carrington junr., William Smith, Robert Smith, Benjamin Wilson, Maurice Langhorne, Richard Eggleston, Edward Carrington, John Woodson, John Hyde Saunders, Clerk, and Charles Woodson junr.

The Chairman recommended that the Committee should take under consideration the Proceedings of the late Provincial Convention held at Richmond Town in the County of Henrico from Monday the 20th of March to Monday the 27th of the same; The Committee accordingly proceeded to the Consideration thereof and after the maturest Deliberation came to the following Resolutions. Resolved unanimously that this Committee doth cordially approve the Proceedings and Resolutions of the late Provincial Convention and also recommend it in the strongest Terms to the Inhabitants of this County to observe them in every particular, and that they use every means in their Power to carry them into effect.

Resolved unanimously, That the most cordial Thanks of this Committee and of all the Inhabitants of this County are justly due to the Honourable Peyton Randolph Esqr. and the rest of the worthy Delegates who represented this Colony in the late Provincial Convention, for their cheerful Undertaking and faithful Discharge of the Trust reposed in them, and for the Wisdom and Spirit displayed in their Proceedings.

Resolved, That in Compliance with the Recommendation of the late Provincial Convention for procuring Ammunition and other Articles of Military Preparation, the sum of one Shilling and three Pence be collected from the Inhabitants of this County for every tithable Person in it; and this Committee doth recommend it to the different Housekeepers, and all other Persons in this County as speedily as possible to pay to any Member of this Committee who shall apply for the same, the Sum of one Shilling and three Pence for every tithable Person which they listed or ought to have listed according to Law on the tenth of June last.

Resolved, That to avoid any further Request of Money from the People on this Occasion, the Members of this Committee will take on themselves the Collection of the aforesaid Money; and that Mr. Mosby, Mr. James, Mr. Joseph Carrington, Mr. George Carrington Jr. and Mr. Edward Carrington divide the County into twenty-four Districts and allot to each Member his District for Collection.

Resolved, That the utmost Industry be used in collecting the said Money as soon as possible; and, although this Committee has the greatest Confidence in the Virtue and Spirit of the People of this County in general, yet knowing that in all Nations and Societies there are some who want Virtue, it is further resolved, that reports be made to this Committee of the few who shall refuse Payment and of their Reasons for refusing that proper Steps may be taken for punishing such Delinquents, in order that the Foes to the Cause of Freedom may be known, if from the Circumstances of their Refusal such Publication shall seem proper.

Resolved, That Mr. Chairman be appointed Treasurer and that each Member shall to him account for, and pay his Collections.

Resolved, That some Part of the Ammunition and other Articles to be procured for this County ought to be procured as soon as possible: be it therefore further resolved, that Mr. Mayo, Mr. Plensants, and Mr. Charles Woodson, junr. be a select Committee for the Purpose of securing the same; that they as speedily as possible procure 500 lb. of Gunpowder, 1000 lb. of Lead, and 2000 Flints; and that the Treasurer out of the Fund to be lodged in his Hands, furnish the said Committee with as much Money as the aforesaid Articles, with Charges of Transportation, shall cost.

Resolved, That Wednesday the 17th day of May be appointed for the Election of Delegates to represent this County in Provincial Convention; that it be recommended to the Freeholders thereof to convene at the Court House on that day for the Purpose of electing the said Delegates.

Resolved, That this Committee conceive the bestowing any Victuals or strong Liquors by Way of Treat on account of such Elections as a Species of Extravagance, and that it directly tends to lead the People into Dissipation; It is therefore further resolved, that no Candidate shall by himself or by means of any other Person either previous to, at, or after the day of Election, give or bestow any such Treat, or make Preparation for or by any Means encourage an expectation of a Treat at his own House or elsewhere.

Resolved, that the present alarming Situation of American Affairs especially in the Province of New York renders it absolutely necessary that a Colony Convention be immediately called, and this Committee doth recommend it to Robert Carter Nicholas Esquire in the most earnest Terms to call a Colony Convention as speedily as possible, provided the General Assembly now called to meet on the first Thursday in June, shall be prorogued to a further day.

The following Address to the Inhabitants of the lower Parts of Virginia was proposed and unanimously agreed to.

Friends and Countrymen.

We, the Committee for the County of Cumberland, taking into our serious Consideration the unremitting Efforts of a despotic Administration to effect the total Subversion of American Liberty; aided by the wicked Tools of Corruption who are endeavouring by the basest Misrepresentations and Falsehoods to effect an unnatural Division between the Mother Country and her Colonies; covering their wicked Design under the specious Pretence of Duty and Attachment to our gracious Sovereign and the sacred Laws of the British Empire: And also the unhappy Situation to which you will be reduced in Case of an hostile Invasion of this Colony, do for ourselves and our Constituents (should such a distressing Circumstance take place) most cordially invite you to remove so many of your Wives and Children into this County as the Inhabitants thereof can conveniently entertain, where they will meet with the best Protection and Accommodations which we are able to afford them.

The following Address to the Inhabitants of this County was proposed and unanimously agreed to:

Dear Country Men.

In Contemplation of securing your dearest Rights and Liberties against the Oppression of Great Britain, you, some Months ago, by your free and unblasted Suffrages, elected us, subordinate to those august Bodies, the Continental Congress and Provincial Convention, Guardians of these invaluable Blessings. At an early Period, after receiving this Honour, we convened ourselves for the Purpose of discharging the important Trusts, so reposed in us, and have from Time to Time devised such Measures towards a happy Event of your important Contest, as the maturest Deliberation could suggest; in return you have ever paid us the grateful Tribute of entire Confidence, testified by the most implicit Acquiescence and Concurrence in whatever we recommended. We with Pleasure bear in Mind a very recent Instance of your Confidence, that of the speedy and cheerful Contribution of Monies requested of you for the Purpose of making Military Preparation, and this Contribution you may depend that no Means shall be untried for laying out to the best Advantage. We however find that you can still contribute much to this Preparation by immediately applying with Diligence to the making of Salt Petre; this is an Article much wanted as an Ingredient for Gun Powder; your Tobacco House and Stable Floors are Foundations from which it may be produced, with but little Trouble, in great Abundance and Perfection: We therefore most earnestly request, that you obtain the most short and ready Process, and lose no Time in making this necessary, but easy procured Article.

We have been attentive to the Movements of the cursed Instruments of your Troubles, and, had any Prospects of an Accommodation with the Parent State come within our View, should gladly have laid them before you; such an Event however we have till lately hoped for, but must now tell you it cannot be expected at all. Your Enemies seem Implacable in their Determinations to ruin American Liberty, and for effecting that diabolical Purpose, suffer no Engine to ly still, that can be put in Motion, by any Manoeuvre, however mean, cowardly and detestable: For Instances we need only to refer you to the late Conduct of that MERCENARY MINISTERIAL TOOL, LORD DUNMORE, within your own Colony, and be assured that many such Hirelings are employed, and will be as long as Means can be Supplied for paying them. In short believe us, when we say, that Nothing can be expected for your Relief from the Virtue of a British Ministry or Parliament; although there are some Members in both Houses of the latter, who, ashamed of the black Deeds of their Body, dally, to their lasting Honour, hold out their Names as Dissentients; yet, unhappily for Britain, and America too, they are but few. You may indeed consider yourselves as in a State of War with Great Britain, for several Engagements have been between her Troops and the Inhabitants of your Sister Colony of Massachusetts Bay, and each Power still stands in opposite Military Array. All the American Colonies have long since united in opposing British Oppression, a Blow, therefore, struck at one, must be considered as struck at all; You may daily look for the Invaders in your own Colony, or should the whole Force of the Enemy be bent on that, or any other Province, your assistance must not be denied. In your Arms under divine Providence, rests your Security. We entreat you therefore by that Regard you have for the Safety of your own Persons; for your Liberties, civil and religious; for every Thing which can render your Being on Earth happy, for, what is of more weighty Consideration, the Happiness of yr. Posterity for endless Ages to come; under Sanction of that Confidence you repose in us; that, without Delay, you take up your Arms; put them in the best Condition; get acquainted with Military Discipline; and stand in Readiness for actual Service, upon the first Sound of the Trumpet of War. Suppress every Animosity among yourselves; pay Obedience to Officers properly appointed; let no Discontents on Account of their Advancement interrupt the necessary Preparation; let Harmony dwell amongst you:—Remember the old Proverb, "United, we stand; Divided, we fall". Preserve what Ammunition you have by you; do not expend it on any Occasion whatever, except in the greatest Necessity, for more will be wanted for your Protection than can shortly be procured. Observe these our Entreaties, and fear not; Your American Bretheren are firm; you have many Friends in Great Britain and Ireland; and in the Justness of your Cause, you may, with Confidence, look up to Heaven for Assistance; In Supplication for whose Interposition to avert the approaching Scene of Blood and Destruction, we recommend that you universally, in Compliance with the Appointment of the Grand Continental Congress, devote Thursday the twentieth Day of July to public HUMILIATION, FASTING AND PRAYER.

Resolved, that the foregoing Address from the Committee to the Inhabitants of Cumberland County, be read by the several Ministers to their Congregations; that it be sent to Mr. Purdie to be printed; and that he also be requested to furnish the Chairman with a Number of Hand Bills thereof for the Benefit of this County.

At a Committee held for Cumberland County at the Court House on Thursday the 29th Day of February Anno Domini 1776. Present, Mr. Chairman, Mr. Mayo, Mr. Fleming, Mr. Randolph, Mr. Pleasants, Mr. Mosby, Mr. Skipwith, Mr. Charles Woodson, Mr. George Carrington junr. Mr. Miller Woodson and Mr. Allen.

The Resolution drawn up by Mr. Harrison, a Member of this Committee, touching some Resolutions lately published by the Continental Congress, and received by this Committee at a former Session, being transcribed stood as followeth.

"Whereas It is notorious to this Committee, that every Artifice has been practiced, and no Stratagem unattempted, by a Set of Men among us, who, notwithstanding their false Glosses and external Demeanour, are avowed Enemies as well to the Constitution of Great Britain as the happy Union which once subsisted between the Mother Country and her Colonies, to draw many, otherwise honest and well meaning, but uninformed People in this Colony into erroneous Opinions, and to obstruct, as far as in their Power, that Universal Harmony and Union, which we wish to establish through the Continent, have endeavored to detach them by the most dreadful Apprehensions of the probable Issue of the present Contests; and whereas it is recommended to the different Committees by the Honourable Continental Congress, to treat all such Persons with Kindness, and to view their Errors as proceeding, rather from want of Information, than of Virtue or publick Spirit; to assure them, that Necessity, not Choice, has driven us to defend, by Arms, our Rights and Liberties; and, in Order to explain to them the Origin, Nature and extent of the present Controversy, liberally to distribute among the People the Proceedings of the Congress, the late Speeches in Parliament relative to American Grievances and such other Pamphlets as tend to elucidate the Merits of the American Cause:

Resolved, that the Printers be encouraged to print in a Pamphlet the Speeches of the great Patriots in both Houses of Parliament relative to American Grievances; and that the Members of this Committee use their utmost Endeavours, to carry the above recited Resolution into Effect, and that fifty Copies of the Proceedings of the Continental Congress, and other necessary Papers be purchased at the Expense of this Committee for the Use of the County.

And whereas It is incumbent on us, particularly at this Time, to preserve Unanimity and Harmony among ourselves, and to show that we are determined to promote Merit to the utmost of our Power wherever to be found:

Resolved, that it be recommended to the Inhabitants of this County in particular, and of the Colony in general, that all Distinction of Colonies and Countries be laid aside; that there be no other Name known among them than that of Americans and that every Man, who will heartily join in this common and ever glorious Struggle for Liberty, be considered and treated as an American born."

Thomas Miller reported to this Committee, that in Pursuance of a former Order directing the Clerk of this Committee to apply to the Printer or Printers for such Resolutions, Speeches and Publications as might be useful to the People in this County, he had purchased of Messrs. Dixon and Hunter in Williamsburg sundry Speeches of the Bishop of St. Asaph and Political Pamphlets of one Sharp, amounting in the whole of both Kinds to the Number of five dozen, and costing the Sum of two Pounds two Shillings and six Pence. That they were all of the Kind he could find in any of the Printing Offices, now on Hand; but that agreeable to the Resolution of this Committee he had endeavoured to encourage the reprinting in a Pamphlet the Speech of Edmund Burke, Esquire, on the American Question, and some other Political Productions, which might prove entertaining and useful to the County: That the above mentioned Speeches and Pamphlets already purchased were charged to him, and brought up and distributed through the County.

The Company complete of Captain Charles Fleming, of the Regular Service, reviewed by Mr. Mosby and Mr. Netherland and others, was reported to this Committee and received, and a Certificate ordered to be granted to the said Captain Fleming.

The Regular Company of this County, under Captain Charles Fleming, is directed to march to Gloucester Court House, and to begin their march in one Week from this Time.

Nathan Glenn, Gentleman, Ensign in Captain Miller Woodson's Company of Militia in this County took the usual Oath and qualified agreeable to the Ordinance of Convention.

Ordered, that Mr. Mosby do contract for the Waggon, Team, and Driver employed by Captain Charles Fleming to carry his Company's Baggage down to Gloucester Court House, after being disengaged from Captain Fleming, to proceed immediately from Gloucester Court House and go to Hampton and bring up from thence a Load of Salt for the Use of this County, and that the said Waggon, Team, and Driver be employed by the Day from the Time of leaving Gloucester Court House till he brings up his Load of Salt to Cumberland Court House.

The Committee then proceeded to go into an Examination of the disputed Election between Thomas Davenport and Bartlett Thompson, and after examining sundry Witnesses and hearing Evidence; It is considered and resolved, That Bartlett Thompson be received as a Member of this Committee in Exclusion of Thomas Davenport who hath hitherto set a Member in this Committee since the last Election; and that the said Bartlett Thompson have Notice of this Resolution.

Ordered, that the whole Proceedings of the late Committee of this County; and also of this present Committee be fairly transcribed by the Clerk in a Book or Books of Record to be kept for that Purpose: And also, that all Letters which come directed to the Chairman of this Committee, or to the Committee, for the Use of this Committee, be communicated to the Committee at their next Sitting, and filed by the Clerk of the Committee in his Office.

PROCEEDINGS OF COMMITTEE OF SAFETY OF CUMBERLAND COUNTY

Present, Mr. Chairman, Mr. Mayo, Mr. Fleming, Mr. Harrison, Mr. Randolph, Mr. Pleasants, Mr. Hatcher, Mr. Scott, Mr. Skipwith, Mr. Langhorne, Mr. Miller Woodson and Mr. Thompson.

Thomas Miller is rechosen Clerk of this Committee.

Present, Mr. Carrington junr.

Mr. Harrison reported from the Sub-Committee appointed to draw up Instructions for the Delegates, in Convention to be chosen for this County, that they had drawn up Instructions for the Concurrence of the People, which he read in his Place, and being approved were received by the Committee and stood as hereto annexed.

Mr. Harrison moved that It be recommended to the People of this County strictly to observe the seventeenth Day of May as a Fast agreeable to the Resolution of the Continental Congress; Resolved therefore, that the Resolution drawn up by Mr. Harrison be received by this Committee, and the same was received accordingly and is annexed to the Proceedings of the Day, together with the above recited Resolution, being both read and approved of.

The Instructions to the Delegates to be chosen for the County of Cumberland on Monday the 22nd Day of April 1776 to sit in the general Convention of this Colony drawn up and reported by Mr. Harrison for the Concurrence of the People, and approved by the Committee at their last Meeting and generally agreed to by the People, were annexed to the Proceedings of the Committee at the Time aforesaid and stand as follow.

"To John Mayo and William Fleming, gent. When the King of Great Britain, deaf to all the humiliating and well intended Petitions from his once loyal Subjects, not only of America, but of Great Britain also, changes his Justice into Severity; when he stoops to the low Artifice of bribing to carry despotic Designs into Effect, and his first Dignities are Marks of the first Servitude; when he prefers arbitrary Sway unknown to the Constitution which placed his Family on the Throne to the Love and Happiness of his Subjects; when the British Parliament so far sunk in Venality and Corruption as to sacrifice their most inestimable Privileges, adding Insult to Oppression, have given his Majesty the warmest Assurances, that they will, with their Lives and Fortunes, support him in a ruinous and cruel War against us. When his Majesty, after a wanton Abuse of his Negative on our Acts of Assembly, by which he has forced the Slave Trade on us for several Years, unmindful of his Coronation Oath, has ordered his Governour, Lord Dunmore, to arm our Slaves against us, in open Violation of several Acts of Assembly which have the Royal Sanction; when an uniform System through all the Acts of Parliament in the present Reign, tending evidently to the total Destruction of American Liberty, leaves no other Alternative than a base Submission to their inhuman, impolitic and oppressive Measures, or Independancy; Actuated by a tender Regard to ourselves and to our Posterity we think ourselves Indispensably obliged to declare boldly for the latter. We therefore your Constituents instruct you positively to declare for an Independancy; that you solemnly adjure and Allegiance to his Britannick Majesty, and bid him a good Night for ever; that you promote in our Convention an Instruction to our Delegates, now sitting in Continental Congress, to do the same; that they, in their Line of Conduct, follow the British Parliament Step by Step, and since all American Property is declared forfeited to the Crown, that they shall endeavour to procure an Act of the Congress, condemning the Property of every British Subject residing beyond Sea, and every Subject not taking an Active Part in the present Contest, to the Use of the United Colonies; that they listen to no Terms of Accommodation from the British Court, without a previous Renunciation from the King of Great Britain of all Right, Title or Authority in and over these Colonies, and a formal and solemn Recognition of our Rights and Independancy; nor form any commercial Treaty, till they are satisfied of a Removal of their Ships of War and Troops from our Coasts and Seas; that they immediately open a free Trade to all Nations; that they exert themselves in procuring such foreign Assistance and forming such commercial Connexions as they, in their superior Wisdom, shall think prudent. Should any Proposals be made to you, we strenuously insist that you order the Commissioners immediately to withdraw and refer them to the Continental Congress. And whereas the necessary Expenses of the present War, from a Scarcity of Coin, must occasion an emission of a Paper Currency to so great Amount as will depreciate its Value, a great Proportion whereof will be laid out in Provisions, which we have perishing on our Hands thro' a Stoppage of Trade, every Mode which tends to remedy the Evil must deserve your Attention, we therefore, assuring you of our hearty Concurrence in the present Measures, and wishing a vigorous Opposition, recommend to you to procure an Ordinance for an immediate Assessment in Provisions when necessary, and that proper Landings be appointed for the Delivery thereof.

Since we can neither love, honour, nor esteem, but must detest the Wretch, who hath brought Fire and Sword into our Country, we conceive a manifest Inconsistency in our Act of Worship, we acknowledge his Britannic Majesty for our lawful Sovereign; we most heartily beseech Almighty God to strengthen him, that he may vanquish and overcome all his Enemies, at the same Time, begging his Protection, and that he will save us from the Hands of our Enemies, abate their Pride, assuage their Malice, and confound their Devices; thus we dishonour him, who hath enjoined us to pray with the Heart and Understanding also, and must appear to be rank Hypocrites: We therefore recommend, that so much of the Liturgy as respects the King be altered; that a Prayer for the Preservation, Happiness and Union of the Colonies be substituted, and that the Clergy be directed to use the same on Pain of an immediate Removal."

The Resolution drawn up by Mr. Harrison, read to and approved by the Committee of Cumberland County on Monday the 22nd of April 1776, touching a Fast to be observed the 17th Day of May following, stood as hereto subjoined.

"Whereas Friday the 17th Day of May next is fixed on by the Honourable Continental Congress as a Day of Humiliation, Fasting and Prayer.

Resolved that it be recommended to the Inhabitants of this County piously to keep the same, that under a due Sense of God's superintending Providence we may, with united Hearts, confess our manifold Sins and Transgressions, and by a sincere Repentance and Amendment ~ Life appease his righteous Displeasure, and through the Medlation of Jesus Christ, obtain his Pardon: Humbly Imploring him to frustrate the cruel Purposes of our unnatural Enemies, and to prevent the further Effusion of our kindred Blood: But if Necessity constrain us to repel their hostile Invasions, that it may please the God of Armies to animate our Officers and Soldiers with Invincible Fortitude, to cover them in the Day of Battle, and to crown the Continental Arms with Victory: Earnestly beseeching him to bless our Civil Rulers and the Representatives of the People in their several Assemblies, to preserve and strengthen their Union, to inspire them with a disinterested Love of their Country, and to give Wisdom and Stability to their Councils: And that the Ministers in the different Parishes be requested to prepare a Sermon suitable to the Occasion."
